

OPERA PREPARES BIG HOLIDAY-WEEK BILLS

Thanksgiving and Anniversary Programs Head Attractive List Next Week

Two gala anniversary affairs and a holiday atmosphere of brilliancy will characterize the fourth week of the Chicago Civic opera, opening Sunday, November 22, with a sparkling performance of "Carmen" as the bill for the commuter's matinee that has become an established feature at the auditorium. Each Sunday at 2 o'clock a "suburban special" is given—a performance especially designed and timed for music lovers living remote from the heart of Chicago. The popularity these Sunday matinees have developed imparts to them the aspect of a great suburban reunion, where music lovers from far down state in Illinois, from nearby points in Indiana, Michigan and Southern Wisconsin, gather in mutual enjoyment of the unusual opportunity afforded.

The current week closes with a star performance of "Il Trovatore" at popular prices on Saturday evening, November 21 with every seat in the auditorium at less than theater prices—a feature of the educational campaign conducted by the company. It will be the last appearance of the season of Louise Homer. Muzio, Kerr, Cortis, Mojica and Bonelli will constitute the cast. Henry G. Weber will conduct.

Fitziu, Guest Artist

Monday evening, November 23, ushers in a repetition of "Cavalleri Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci." The cast for the former opera includes Sawyer, Lamont and Torti. Henry G. Weber, conducting. Comprising the cast for "Pagliacci" will be Fitziu (guest), Anseau, Steel, Defrere and Olivier; conductor, Moranzoni.

Tuesday brings the season's first hearing of "Andrea Chenier" with Muzio, Pavloska, Lenska, d'Hermanoy, Marshall, Formichi, Lazzari, Defrere, Trevisan and Mojica; Polacco conducting.

Wednesday evening "Faust" will be repeated in all its melodious beauty, with Mason, Hackett, Lazzari, Defrere; conductor Grovlez.

Thursday evening introduces "Othello" for the first time this season, as a sturdy and sumptuous Thanksgiving bill with Sawyer, Claessens, Marshall, Bonelli, Kipnis; Moranzoni conducting.

Friday, an opera that will be as welcome now as it was when first sung in an opera house that has long since disappeared, in lower New York, a century ago, "The Barber of Seville" will be presented, commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the introduction of grand opera in America. There will be an exceptional cast with Toti dal Monte in the role of Rosina. Others who will be heard in the anniversary performance include Glaessens, Hackett, Rimini, Lazzari and Trevisan; Moranzoni conducting.

Saturday matinee brings a repetition of "Der Rosenkavalier" and Saturday night, November 28, will introduce at popular prices "Aida," an unusual treat.
