

Attractive Christmas Shopper

Two Views of Spaulding and Company's Evanston Store.

Some Americans go to Paris to find those interesting and delightful things that the Frenchmen know so well how to display enticingly to the foreigner's eye. Some go to Vienna and Bond Street, Italy and the Orient, but it is to be doubted if any of these places offer a more suitable selection for American tastes and American homes than the new Evanston branch of Spaulding and company.

An intimate shop this is, where one may while away a few moments or spend hours looking through the charming arrangement of articles suitable for gifts or one's own household. With the enormous purchasing power of Spaulding behind it—buyers constantly in Europe for the choice productions—it is obvious that such a shop can offer the most distinctive collection the market affords.

The idea of the shop as expressed by the management is to bring patrons along the north shore a choice, carefully selected stock. Always at this shop will be the new and clever things—just arrived from abroad, distinctive bits of glassware, pottery, unusual novelties, leather, brass, China and silverware, as well as jewelry novelties and watches.

Of especial appeal is the fact that the shop is so easy of access with plenty of parking space.
