

Hey, the Hay Loft Is Now Ready for the Gang

Hay, Hay, Hay everywhere! That's the dominant note of the extremely novel appointments of the Old Hay Loft, dine and dance place opened this week at Grove street and Sherman avenue, Evanston.

Hay protrudes from the rafters, sticks out everywhere, screens the lights from the old barn lanterns (modernized) and just makes one want to sing that delightful ditty entitled "Hay, Hay—take another load away," or whatever it was the orchestra was playing.

Frint George, man of the varieties, who was associated with the Western Vaudeville association for many years and more recently has piloted a bevy of radio satellites on "personal appearance" tours of the Middle West, is the man behind the scenes at the Hay Loft. It's his idea and he's worked it out to a pleasing nicety. We're not going to tell you more—leave something to your imagination. You'll be joyously surprised for the Hay Loft is without a doubt the most novel departure in restaurant ideas ever ventured in this vicinity.

Saturday is formal opening night for the Hay Loft. The dine and dance place has the endorsement of Northwestern university authorities, the Evanston Woman's club and other of Evanston's leading interests, it is explained.

Miss Katherine G. Tufts, 114 Bertling lane, Winnetka, has been elected vice-president of the Lasell Dramatic club of Lasell seminary for young women at Auburndale, Mass., according to a report coming from the school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Martin and their son, Robert, 997 Vine street, are leaving Friday, December 18, for a three weeks' stay in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Bradstreet, 475 Cedar street, who have been touring in Florida, expect to return home for the Christmas holidays.

STAGE GRATIS PERFORMANCE

Members of the North Shore Theater Guild are to witness a gratis performance of the play, "The Truth About Blayds," at the Byron Stolp school auditorium Saturday evening, December 12. Performances of this play have been accorded much favorable comment in Chicago.

So you are looking for an honest man in the meat business, Happy? If you will take my advice you will go straight to PETERS MARKET. I found PETERS to be always fair and conscientious with his customers and always priding himself on the care and quality of his meats and the service rendered to the community.

Maybe you are right Careful. At any rate, I have found little satisfaction shopping around. I am going straight to their market now and if they serve me as they do you they will have another steady customer.
