

SOLVE RENT PROBLEM

Florida City Adopts Teacher Housing Plan in Operation in Winnetka and Glencoe; Keep Rents Down

A plan for housing teachers of the public schools, as worked out successfully in Winnetka and Glencoe in recent years, has been adopted at Miami, Fla., with the aid of the real estate board of that city, according to word from the National Association of Real Estate boards.

The board, a member of the National Association of Real Estate boards, was asked for aid in the housing problem that faced the Board of Education in the early part of November when most of the instructors in the city schools would have been forced to pay much higher rents or move to undesirable districts.

A committee of realty brokers appointed to study the problem, remedied the situation by obtaining a newly built apartment house which was turned over to the city teachers. Bought by a holding company, composed of realty people, it was offered to the Board of Education at a rent that covers the carrying charges but allows no profit.

The building, which houses more than 40 persons, is very much like a club, being chaperoned and managed by the mother of one of the teachers.

Other members of the national association have been active in relieving housing shortage.

The Lakeland, Florida, Real Estate board is constructing a tourist camp to alleviate the congested condition of the district. In laying out the plans, provision has been made for a community center, playgrounds and parks.

MAN OF THE HOUR

The man who invented In-a-door beds has a future before him, according to a suggestion that comes to the National Association of Real Estate boards from the weekly bulletin of the Miami Realty board. He's the very man to solve the all-American downtown traffic problem.

Winifred Wilson, noted North Shore artist, has sold a large canvass entitled "Twin Oaks" which was purchased through the Evanston Woman's club by a jury selected to represent the school children of Evanston. The picture will be hung in the new Lincoln school in the neighboring suburb as a memorial to a much beloved teacher who passed away some time ago. The picture has received much praise. It was exhibited at the Wilmette Woman's club exhibit last year and is now on exhibition at the fifth annual art exhibit of the Evanston Woman's club.
