

Young People Still Honored by Whirl of Holiday Festivities

Dinners and dances still continue as a popular means of entertaining for the young people of the village, although other affairs are listed.

This evening Mrs. Raymond C. Durham of 808 Auburn avenue will give a dinner at her home for her daughter, Elizabeth, preceding the small house-dance Mrs. Laird Bell is giving for her daughter, Helen, at her residence on Tower road.

Saturday, December 26, is also the occasion of the dance Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress are giving at Indian Hill club for their daughter, Emily. Before the dance, Mrs. James Fentress and Mrs. Francis Lackner will entertain a number of young people at dinner, at Indian Hill. Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford McKeown will also give a dinner for their daughter, Alice Jeanne, preceding the Fentress dance.

Monday evening, Pierre Bouscaren, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. G. Bouscaren of 646 Prospect avenue, will be host to a group of his friends at a dinner before the dance Mr. and Mrs. Allen Withers are giving at Indian Hill club for their daughter, Leila. The same evening the Harry Streets are entertaining at a dance at their home, 592 Sheridan road, for their daughter, Marjorie.

Tuesday, Francis Lackner, Jr., will be host at a dance at his home, 339 Linden avenue.

Wednesday, December 30, Mrs. George Stanley Parker will be hostess at her home, 200 Linden street, at a luncheon and bridge given for a group of school girls in honor of her daughter, Elizabeth.

Wednesday evening, John Nash Ott,

Jr., will be host at a dinner preceding the winter sports party given at Indian Hill club by Mrs. Horace Armstrong and Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore for their children, Frank and Jean Armstrong, and Philip and Harriet Moore.
