Red Cross Drive Brings $153,000 in Chicago Area

Approximately $153,000 was raised in Chicago and its suburbs in the recent Red Cross Roll Call campaign, according to word from Thomas M. Temple, executive secretary of the Chicago Chapter of the American Red Cross. In a letter directed through this paper to all citizens who contributed in the annual fund and membership drive, Mr. Temple writes: "The results of the last Roll Call will have netted the Chicago Chapter Red Cross approximately $153,000, which will permit it to carry on its heavy burden of relief for ex-service men for the year 1926. With strict economy it can meet all its requirements as it always has.

"It also hopes to extend its educational work in First Aid, Life Saving and Home Nursing, and to extend its disaster preparedness program so that any emergencies can be handled effectively.

"Much of the success of the Red Cross campaign is due to the generous co-operation of your paper and your readers, who have also stood by the Red Cross since the early days of the war.

"Please accept my thanks for yourself and your readers, and the best wishes of the Chicago Chapter for a Prosperous New Year."

Mr. and Mrs. N. Landon Hoyt, 435 Elm street, are in Green Cove Springs where they will spend the remainder of the winter.
