Bank to Share Profits With All Its Employees

In recognition of a year of prosperity, the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston announces the details of an employees' Savings and Profit Sharing Fund plan which, after a few years of quiet experimentation, bids fair to be notably successful. The bank contributes five per cent of its net earnings as its share of the fund, and, although the plan went into operation only four years ago, to date its contributions have averaged better than one dollar for every dollar invested by the employees. The fund at present is in excess of $52,500 and each employee of the bank, who has served it for two or more years, shares in the earnings. The trustees have carefully invested the fund in bonds.

"The year has been gratifying to the directors and patrons of the bank," comments President Frank J. Scheidenhelm, who is a well known Wilmette resident, "and all of us have felt that we should make clear our plan of sharing the bank's success with our employees. We feel that the plan in its essential details has special merits and will eventually prove of unusual value to the employees of the institution. Employees, under this plan, may contribute up to five per cent of their salaries, not to exceed in each instance over $200 a year, until after fifteen years of service when they may deposit not to exceed $300 per annum. The bank, as already stated, contributes annually five per cent of its own net earnings to the fund.

"The management and control of the fund, subject to the board of directors of the bank, is vested in five trustees, three of whom are officers of the bank, and the remaining two are bank employees, who are not officers, elected by the contributing employees. The largest amount in any one account is $3,900, of which the employee has contributed $1,500."
