Complete Plans for Women Voters' Study; Outline Class Work

Plans for the study classes of the Winnetka League of Women Voters were completed at a meeting of those interested, held at the home of Mrs. Francis Lackner, 339 Linden avenue, Wednesday, January 27. There are to be six meetings of the group held on six consecutive Mondays at the home of the various members of the class.

The first meeting will be on Monday, February 1, at 10:45 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Robert Butz, 622 Oak street. The subject will be a general survey of the foreign affairs of the United States including the present status of the debt situation. Mrs. William Hale will be the leader.

The subject the next Monday will be "The World Court." The two following meetings will be devoted to county government. At the fifth meeting, federal legislative measures to come up at the congress now in session will be discussed, particularly the Mellon tax plan, and the Garritt-Wodsworth amendment, which would so amend the Constitution that future amendments would be all but impossible.

At the last meeting, March 8, impending state legislation in Illinois will be studied. The state measures in which the women of this group are most interested are the revenue amendment, the ballot reform measure, and the state reformatory for women.

Leaders for these meetings will be chosen later. The 16 members of the class are as follows: Mesdames Harold DeLay, W. H. Kelley, Roswell Mason, Frank Crawford, R. S. Childs, John Vennema, Robert Butz, Walter Benson, Elbert Clark, Roger Sherman, Leslie Gooder, Francis Lackner, John Vander Vries, Morris Greeley, H. O. Von Hofsten, and Miss Martha Gemmell.

Col. House reveals the real Wilson

The remarkable extent of House's power in the Wilson administration now told for the first time

COL. EDWARD M. HOUSE will release his intimate papers for publication in the Chicago Herald and Examiner, beginning Sunday, January 31.

Col. House, private citizen, whose name loomed larger than that of most officials in Wilson's administration, was often called the "man of mystery." His importance was known, and his power suspected, but the full import of his surprising relation with President Wilson has never been disclosed. In these papers, House reveals every phase of this remarkable relationship.

Col. House was the closest friend that Wilson had. Wilson himself admitted House's importance, and his dependence on him. Someone asked him who Col. House was, and he said,

"Mr. House is my second personality. He is my independent self. His thoughts and mine are one. If I were in his place I would do just as he suggested. . . . If any one thinks he is reflecting my opinion by whatever action he takes, they are welcome to the conclusion."

Documents and letters cover every phase of their relationship. Col. House kept a day-to-day record of all happenings. From this diary, and from letters and other documents, Col. House has compiled this extraordinary history.

In their revelation of the true Wilson, and in their explanation of matters that have long been state secrets, these Memoirs of Col. House have never been equalled in our time for vital interest and importance to the public.

The MEMOIRS of COLONEL HOUSE
