In Scoutdom

Friday, February 26, Scouts met as usual. Troop 3 was introduced to their new Assistant Scout Master, Jack Hancock who has just arrived from the East. Next some of the Scouts presented some knot boards that they had made. After that there were games. The Scouts were then put through a snappy O'Grady Drill-down followed by a signalling contest.

Troop 2 made plans for a hike on the following day and worked on the Semaphore Code. Also they learned to "Box the Compass."

Troop 1 was introduced to their new Assistant Scout Master, Holden Anderson. Roll was then taken. Following that a game of Hare and Hounds was played outdoors, after which Dr. Eisenbrand gave full instructions in Semaphore Code. An O'Grady Drill-down was then held. Dr. Eisenbrand then picked a team to put on a good stunt next Friday night. Also, he invited the Patrol leaders and Assistant Patrol Leaders down to his house on Tuesday night the 2nd. Fred Rummeler then dismissed the troop.

The Scout council will meet next week.

Camp Fire Embers

Citizenship! Just what might that mean? Ask any Camp Fire Girl what she means by Citizenship honors, a short interpretation of which was given on Thursday, last, to the Camp Fire Assembly by the Kiadsham group. Miss Childs, now guardian, gave an explanatory note saying that the ensuing skit would represent a scene at Ellis Island. If the girls kept their ears wide open they might catch certain facts about the different countries portrayed.

The nations represented, were: Italy, by Jean Maddock and Muriel Uhleman; England, by Josephine Johnstone and Virginia Conner; and Czecho-Slovakia, by Lois Kahnweiler. Two interesting countries, China and Algiers, had to be omitted because of illness of two members. The supposedly austere Official was Marjorie Englehard and her learned accomplice, the Interpreter, was Jane Ashman. We are glad to state that the worried Marshall was none other than "K" Smith. Get busy, girls-work for Citizenship!

Country Day P. T. Group
 Hears Dr. Harold Rugg

The annual mid-year meeting of the Parent Teacher association of the North Shore Country Day school was held at the school gymnasium, Wednesday evening, at which time the association had as its guest and speaker, Dr. Harold O. Rugg, of the Teachers' college, of Columbia university and also of the Lincoln school of New York City. Dr. Rugg spoke on the subject of "Intelligence Tests," giving a history of the development of the tests in America, discussed the types of questions employed and indicated the position of the various wings of opinion concerning their usefulness.
