PREDICT RECORD VOTE IN PRIMARY ELECTON

Hottest Campaign in Many Years to Culminate in Balloting Tuesday, April 13

New Trier voters, in conjunction with the residents of the other country town regions will be called upon Tuesday, April 13, to determine the results in what promises to be one of the most hotly contested Cook county Primary elections on record in recent years. With Republican factions sharply divided, the voting on Tuesday will mark the culmination of many weeks of bitter campaigning for the favor of the electorate in the suburban communities round-about Chicago.

Insofar as New Trier is concerned the big fight is in connection with the nomination of county commissioners, since both the Deneen and Crowe-Barrett-Brundage factions have candidates who are residents of the township—Frederick W. Penfield of Glencoe and Oscar W. Schmidt of Wilmette are opponents in the campaigning, the former aligned with the Deneen group, and Schmidt with the opposing faction.

Backed by "700"

Seven hundred residents of New

Trier, organized as "The Committee of 700" have come out openly as endorsing Penfield and the other Deneen candidates for county commissioners, and have been waging a vigorous campaign of education to acquaint the township with the issues, flooding the north shore community with literature which embodies the warning that "New Trier faces a crisis at the Primaries." "Shall New Trier interests be sacrificed because politicians choose your candidates?" they ask the voters, contending that the Crowe-Barrett-Brundage faction, not being "satisfied with its control of city politics, is trying to force its candidates upon the country towns." "The crisis is here—" they point out, "the country towns must elect men who have shown by their service in the past that they will work for the interests of the country towns and not for a political faction." The "Committee of 700," of which Gen. John V. Clinnin is chairman, endorses the candidacies of the following men for county commissioners:

Rely on Records

William Busse, Mount Prospect, for commissioner and president of the county board; Frederick W. Penfield, Glencoe; Lachlan W. MacLean, of Evanston; Dudley D. Pierson of Chicago Heights, and George A. Miller of Oak Park, for commissioners. These men are at present commissioners.

Mr. Penfield was formerly village president of Glencoe and is now chairman of the Glencoe Plan commission.

His record as a county commissioner is regarded as highly progressive and strongly in the interests of New Trier needs, as well as those of the entire country towns district.

Mr. Busse has been a county commissioner for 24 years, and has served previously as president of the board. He is seeking re-election on his record of more than a score of years' service to the county.

The Crowe-Barrett-Brundage group, with New Trier headquarters established at 605 Main street, Wilmette, has not been idle. From this source has gone out literature in plentiful quantity setting forth the merits of the various candidates. The township has been canvassed with meticulous care with the result that virtually every householder has become fairly familiar with the campaign issues and the candidates of this persuasion.

Schmidt Strong Candidate

Of particular interest to New Trier voters is the candidacy for county commissioners of Oscar W. Schmidt of Wilmette, formerly village president of his home community and well known in Chicago insurance circles. He is described as a thorough organizer and highly efficient in any work he undertakes. His greatest joy one is told, is the keen competition of the bowling alleys, with golf running a close second for favor. He is well known in athletic circles and was formerly president of the Illinois and Chicago bowling associations. He is regarded as one of the strongest of the Crowe-Barrett candidates. He is endorsed by the Oscar W. Schmidt Booster club of New Trier.

Frank J. Kriz of Western Springs is said to have a strong non-partisan following. He is a banker and business man and is at present a county commissioner, and a Crowe-Barrett power to secure the favor of the voters, it is said.

Joseph P. Carolan, of River Forest, another candidate for county commissioner under the Crowe-Barrett banner, is engaged in the insurance business, and was the first superintendent of the Forest Preserve.

C. Ernest Guyton of Evanston is another Crowe-Barrett county commissioner candidate. He was formerly an Evanston alderman and prominent in civic affairs in that city.

Another candidate for county commissioner in the Crowe-Barrett group is John W. Jaranowski.

For president of the County board the Crowe group has Francis L. Bountell.

Have Fine Records

Candidates for the state legislature on the Deneen ticket are Representatives Howard P. Castle, lawyer, of Barrington, and Lewis B. Springer of Wilmette, who are candidates for re-election. Both of these men have served several terms and are widely known to voters of New Trier. Both have the endorsement of the Legisla-
