Meet to Discuss Zoning of Newly Annexed Land
 Resident of the Indian Hill section of the village will hold a meeting at the Village hall next Wednesday evening, April 21, to determine the sentiment in regard to the proposed zoning ordinance for the newly annexed land. The Zoning commission made a recommendation to the Village council but this has not been finally passed on, because council members were not certain that it met the desires of the residents of the district. There has been considerable interest in the proposal to convert a strip of land between the new through highway and the railroad to park purposes. The cost of this land would have to be paid by special assessment, it is said. A large attendance is expected at the meeting which will be in charge of H. L. Raclin, a member of the Indian Hill Improvement association and of the Village council.

RECOVERS FROM ILLNESS
 William Eckart, of the Eckart Hardware company, who has been ill for some time, but who is improving rapidly, went up to Star Lake in Northern Wisconsin last week where he expects to remain until May 1.

ASK Any Radio Engineer

What the Wheatstone bridge introduced into each stage of radio frequency means in the way of perfect tone and clear, undistorted sound?
 And ask him, too, about the greater volume and higher degree of selectivity such a device creates in a set.

Adventure Island Leader Home Again From Sunny South

Charles A. Kinney returned last week from a six months' visit in Fairhope, Ala., where he has been in charge of the shops in the experimental school directed by Marietta Johnson. Accompanying Mr. Kinney were two boys, fifteen years old, neither of whom had ever before seen snow. When snow was first sighted about a hundred miles south of Chicago the delight of the boys became so keen the party had to halt for an hour and let the boys roll around and pelt each other with snow. The trip from South Alabama was made in autos, the party coming over the Dixie highway, which Mr. Kinney reports in good shape almost all the way through to Montgomery.

Until the camp season opens in July Mr. Kinney will divide his time between Winnetka and Adventure Island, where he is carrying on an extensive development program. The island, which Mr. Kinney purchased two years ago, ranks as one of the beauty spots of the Green Bay region, and in order that he may work out a comprehensive plan of development covering a period of years Mr. Kinney secured the services of a landscape artist and of a trained gardener, so that all permanent improvements and changes made on the island will enhance its natural beauty.

Since its establishment on the new island, Adventure Island camp is becoming widely known among progressive educators, inquiries and applications for the present season having been received from as far east as Connecticut and south west to Texas.

AN INVITATION
 The A. N. Burnham family,
 1-4-0-7 Tower Road,
 Are going to have a jubilee
 At their log-house abode.

On Sunday, April 18th, come,
 And let rain or shine
 Come afternoon or evening—
 Divine! 'Twill be divine!

From 2 p. m. 'till midnight,
 You're invited to be there,
 It's Mr. Burnham's "day of rest"
 But Mother doesn't care.

Old fashioned and informal
 With hand-clasped, laughter, song:
 Now remember, you're invited
 So just pass the word along.
 —The Burnham Tribe.

SCHOOL VOTE LIGHT
 At the school election in Winnetka last Saturday, only 20 votes were cast, enough, however, to re-elect Mrs. Margaret C. Blatchford and Mrs. Alice O. Moulton members of the Board of Education and to elect Barret Conway to succeed Walter Shoemaker, resigned.
