Boys' Books Author Is Visitor at Local School

At the Thursday afternoon assembly at Skokie school, this week, Roy J. Snell, author of boys' books of adventure and a staff writer on the Chicago Daily News, addressed the children on "How to Write a Book." The author told how he utilizes his own personal experiences and of the stories he picked up in his travels in the little known parts of the world, as the bases of his own stories.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hill of Detroit have motored to Kenilworth to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cline, 304 Cumnor road, Kenilworth. Mrs. Hill is Richard Kenyon's sister.

Mrs. Trumbull Backus, 23 Cumnor road, returned to Kenilworth Sunday from Los Angeles, where she spent the winter visiting her sister.

Mrs. Edgar Stevens, 330 Abbottsford road, Kenilworth, entertained eight guests at luncheon and bridge Monday, in honor of Mrs. Olmsted of Omaha.

A Good Ending

BY CRITIC

Another success is added to the list of the Community Players. "Tillie of Bloomsbury" had a freedom of action, an ease of movement, most creditable to the director, Mrs. John Marshall, and to the actors. With a cast of thirteen, a few of them wholly new, with exceptional difficulties in the way of getting any chance to use the stage or try out effects, a fine result was due to the untiring patience of Mr. Marshall, Mrs. Feagans, and Mrs. Freeman. With such a stage crew as David Lasier, Robert Ely, Burton Atwood, Jr., A. B. Long, and Magnus Martin, the effect, once decided on, was sure of fulfillment. Any extra preparation needed was efficiently given by John Ritchie, Frank Bailey, Donald Cameron, and Robert Pearse.

Another definite reason for the success of the play, was the presence of such well know and delightful actors as Mrs. Louis Sherman, Mrs. Charles Moon, Henry Cary-Curr, Ralph Varney, and Lyman Weld, who amply justified their reputations, and kept the audience in merry mood, which Arthur Bonnet, Mr. Naylor, and Miss Shaw aided and abetted. Miss Ellison, remembered for her good work in New Trier High school, was a welcome Sylvia, and George Bartlett, the butler, a newcomer to Winnetka, will be wanted again next year.

Janet Marshall gives promise of being a worthy successor to her mother, while Mrs. Carrie Prouty filled her small part acceptably. Mrs. John Ritchie, Tillie of Bloomsbury, did an outstanding piece of work. The naturalness, and convincing sincerity of her interpretation, made it a delight from first to last, and we hope she may be induced to do more work with the Drama club. Mr. Carpenter, her vis-a-vis, was most satisfactory, a very welcome addition to the growing number of talented amateurs whom the Community Drama club is discovering.

Increasing skill in the "make-up" committee, Mrs. Carleton Washburne, Mrs. Charles Simpson, Mrs. Weld, and Miss Mitchell, was evident, and the costumes, in care of Mrs. Merritt Lum, were well-chosen and effective.

Altogether, the Drama club may well claim a good ending to a good year, and very justly appeal for further support and co-operation from the people who enjoy drama, and enjoy and appreciate the value of the Community Spirit.

Plans are already under way for next season.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Clair Taft, 900 Central avenue, will entertain their dinner-bridge club next Monday evening.
