

Mary Honnold Selects Home as Setting for Wedding Wednesday

In the midst of the families and intimate friends, and with the Honnold home with its masses of artistic spring flowers as a setting, Miss Mary Josephine Honnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Honnold of 457 Ash street, became the bride of Gordon Webster Daly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Daly of Brookline, Mass., Wednesday evening, May 12. The Rev. James Austin Richards read the service at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Evelyn Martin Goetz, a friend of the bride, played the wedding march, which was preceded by the intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana.

The bride's dress was of chiffon and lace over silver cloth, with a silver cloth train. The tulle veil had a Duchess lace head dress fastened with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of lillies of the valley, sweet peas, and gardenias. The maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Virginia Honnold, was gowned in pink over rose georgette, and the two bridesmaids, Miss Ethel Arries and Miss Emily Irwin of Rogers Park, were in dresses of powder blue over pink georgette. Silver lace was used to trim the frocks of the three attendants who carried bouquets of spring flowers to blend with their dresses.

Donald Kelso of Philadelphia served Mr. Daly as best man, and the ushers were Walker Daly of Brookline, Roland Popken of Oak Park, Wilder Morrison of Rogers Park, and Jack Bruce of Milwaukee.

After a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mr. and Mrs. Daly will be at home after June 15, at 21 Orkney road, Brookline, Mass.

Milan Lusk Triumphs in Recital in Czech City

Milan Lusk, the distinguished violinist, gave a recital in Smetana Saal (the Carnegie Hall in Prague) on April 23 and scored a tremendous success in the Czech Capitol. For years Lusk has been a favorite with Prague audiences and on this initial concert he was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Prominent among the fashionable audience present was Lewis Einstein, U. S. Ambassador to Czechoslovakia and the British minister Hon. William Clark.

At the end of the second movement of the d'Ambrosio concerto, Lusk received an ovation of several minutes duration. Again he proved his complete mastery of his instrument, a magnetic and forceful personality and a remarkable power of interpretation. Many encores were as usual demanded toward the end of the program.

Mrs. Roy C. Osgood, 423 Essex road, Kenilworth, entertained the Home and Garden club Monday at her home. Mrs. Benjamin Gage of Evanston read a paper on "Perpetual Bloom," and sang a group of garden songs.

NEAR EAST GETS $1,456

The collection at the Winnetka Congregational church, Sunday morning, for the Near East Relief work, totaled $1,456.94. Following the morning sermon by the Rev. James Austin Richards, whose subject was, "Greater Works Than These," Dr. J. E. Kirby, of the Near East Relief, spoke on this work.

Mrs. Bentley McCloud, 416 Cumnor road, Kenilworth, entertained at luncheon Tuesday at Indian Hill club, in honor of Miss Ball, who is the sister of Sidney Ball. She is staying at the Ball home on Indian Hill road while the family is in Europe.

Mrs. John M. Roberts, 328 Warwick road, entertained her Kenilworth bridge club at luncheon Tuesday last.
