The Spirit of Sportsmanship

The age of games is here. Our well known athlete "Red Grange" pulls down more money than our president.

The spirit of sportsmanship as well as business is the guiding motive to success.

Sportsmanship means the observance of the rules of the games.

We must all be sportsmen in the true meaning of the word, or we don't get anyplace.

A business conducted without the spirit of sportsmanship does not score any more. We must play the game according to the rules—and not make them.

The sportsman in the business world must train himself so that every move meshes easily into the organization. He must be square and look his opponents straight in the eye.

Whether or not the true sportsman scores, he will always win.
