

Offer to Extend Evanston Surface Line to Glenview

If Glenview but says the word, the Evanston Street Railway company, which now terminates at the Forest Preserve about a mile southeast of the village, will be extended on into town, and through to its western limits, if it is so desired.

This valuable acquisition in the way of transportation, has been tendered Glenview, "on a silver platter," so to speak. In other words, C. F. Speed, representing the street car company, in addressing the Glenview Chamber of Commerce, at a recent meeting, said the company is anxious and ready to extend its line, providing Glenview desires it, and it is to be without expense to Glenview.

M. F. Grenning, vice-president of the Glenview Chamber of Commerce, who presided at the meeting in the absence of President Rugen, referred the proposition of Mr. Speeds to the civic's committee with instructions to take the matter up with the village board.

Open New Subdivision Near Lake Front Soon

Another of McGuire and Orr's beautiful new subdivisions of the Mahoney homestead in Kenilworth, it is announced, will be placed on the market June 26.

This is the very last of the near-the-lake acreage this side of Highland Park. There are about six acres in the tract, which have been subdivided into fourteen lots on a beautiful winding street named Tudor place. Some of the lots comprise almost an acre in extent. The smaller ones have the minimum of 12,500 square feet as required by the Kenilworth zoning ordinance and with paving and all improvements in and paid for and highly restricted in accordance with other properties of this section, comprise an unusual offering.

This is the last of the Mahoney farm, except about two acres where the house now stands and where McGuire and Orr's Kenilworth office also is located, and this two acres has permanent residential restrictions thereon.
