In the Court of King Thought

New Trier High school's twenty-fifth anniversary was celebrated last week with a huge pageant, entitled "Enlightenment," depicting the beginning and growth of the school. The book of the pageant was written by C. Russell Small, a member of the school faculty, and more than 500 persons took part in the production. The picture above shows the most colorful scene in the pageant, the "Court of King Thought," with more than 50 characters on the stage, all in varied and gorgeous costumes.
