

URGES ROTARIANS TO HAVE FAITH IN BOYS

Make the Boy Feel That He Is Living in a Friendly World, Speaker Tells Fathers

"There is no such thing as a bad boy," is the opinion of Charles W. Beeching, Philadelphia, who spoke at the meeting of the Wilmette Rotary club Wednesday of this week. "Most of the so-called badness is misdirected energy."

Mr. Beeching, who is chief vocational counselor for the Curtis Publishing company, praised the efficient work of the Y. M. C. A. and the Boy Scouts in satisfying the need which exists in the normal boy for a physical outlet for his overflowing energy.

"We all know the type of boy called a 'bully,'" said Beeching. "Many persons feel that a bully is headed straight for a criminal career. We know this is not necessarily so. Bullying, so-called, is really a form of leadership. The bully of a gang is its leader. Bullying is a natural tendency easily developed by the majority of boys and they usually exercise it if they can get away with it. But if a bully is properly directed he may be developed into a leader. All boys should be trained in leadership. In our own organization we constantly prove that bullies have all the makings of leaders."

Boys Are "Liars"

"Another tendency possessed by all boys before the age of 12 is that of lying. Boys of early age will usually lie to escape punishment. A boy will not generally lie to those whom he loves, likes, respects or admires, his friends. Therefore, if a boy is made to feel that he is surrounded by friends, that he is in a friendly world, the apparent necessity for lying will disappear. The so-called gang influence helps if the gangs are of the right sort, and are well directed. The Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A., and other similar organizations help normal boys to become better fitted to take their places in the world as successful men."

"Practically every boy coming out of babyhood is possessed with an inclination to steal. This must not be considered as an evil trait in a young boy. When we realize that boys in their own homes are allowed to have what they want, or what they need, we know they have to learn that another rule exists in relation to property outside their homes. The best way to train boys in this connection, we believe, is to teach them the rights of others by helping them to realize that effort is required in securing any possession of value. The acquisitive habit is one of the strongest of all in boys. When a boy works for what he wants he learns the value of property and his early stealing stops."

Urges Better Understanding

Mr. Beeching urged better understanding of boys and their needs. It would seem that the little fellows would always be sure of that, since all grown ups were once young; and yet it is the simple fact that the attitude of the adult towards the child, the boy especially, is singularly lacking in understanding. Too often father and son speak different languages. Mr. Beeching believes that properly directed spare-time work gives the boy and father common interests which bring them closer together.

Mr. Beeching also told of the offer of $250,000 which The Curtis Publishing company has made so that boys who progress through its honor organization, The League of Curtis Salesmen, and acquire the Graduate degree, may obtain loans up to $1,500 each toward their necessary college expenses, with their character as security.

Let Cat Out of Bag to Announce Betrothal

The engagement of Miss Dorothy Clyde of the Orrington hotel, Evanston, to Edgar Meyer of Gremen, Ohio, was announced at a bridge party given by Miss Harriet Childs, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Just before the refreshments were served, two of the guests brought in a dainty white bag containing a tiny kitten. Around "kitty's" neck was tied a card with Miss Clyde's and Mr. Meyer's name, so the "cat was let out of the bag."

"Babies" Attend School Sessions at Harrison Hall

The corridors of Harrison hall echoed for the first time with ringing laughter of many children—with a brief wail or two intermingled—at the opening of the Children's school of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college Monday evening.

Children in the first, second and third grades were delighted with the equipment of their large, sunny rooms on the second floor overlooking the lake; the kindergarten children were interested in the live bunnies, large blocks and other toys; and everyone who came into the building was interested in the toddlers of two and three years, in the Nursery school. Even the children from the kindergarten tip-toed to the door to see the "babies."

The Nursery school children paid little attention to the on-lookers, and went seriously about their lessons—learning how to climb the small stairs, pushing and pulling a wagon around the room, watching the goldfish—doing whatever they wished as long as it was not dangerous to themselves, disturbing to others or helping to form undesirable habits. The Nursery school is planned for the development of habits and attitudes which will insure the future happiness and well-being of little children, and, co-operating with the mother in the home, follows a clearly defined program toward this end.

The enrollment for the five weeks of the summer term includes ninety children in the Nursery school, kindergarten and first three grades of the primary, and many of the children are also enrolled for the fall term.
