

VISITOR PRAISES INDIAN HILL CAMP

campers, boys and girls, two years ago. I looked out over Lake Hamlin, across the sand dunes to Lake Michigan, and then got a sweeping, hazy view of the silent, blue-green blueberry swamps.

"From the tower we climbed down the hill to the concrete tennis court to see a spirited match. But baseball was being played that ended with a tie in the ninth inning, taking two extra innings to play it off. They play baseball every night except Sunday.

Praises Camp Fire

"But when I write of the camp fire at night after supper and after baseball, I can say little, because of the impression it made on me. Songs were sung, and a tent entertained with a turtle race, beating any horse or automobile race I ever saw. And finally Chief Davies told a story and talked, the camp fire glowed, and the waves rippled and washed nearby. A simple prayer followed the talk, and with Good night, Chief, the boys tramped up the hill to bed.

"And this is Indian Hill Camp. The picture I carry away with me is one of the war canoes furnished by Community House—eighteen boys in each canoe, with paddles dripping in the sunlight—thirty-six boys paddling in time and according to the speed called by the stroke—thirty-six boys, brown, husky, laughing, cut the water with speed enough to pass a motor launch easily. This is Indian Hill camp."

These boys were winners in the and contests which formed a part of the Fourth of July program at the camp.

Artist, Former Resident, Is Honored in Kansas

Adam Emory Albright, a former resident of Winnetka, who lived in the log cabin studio home on Scott avenue, recently had a painting presented to the public library at Topeka, Kansas. The painting, which was presented to the library by a citizen, is called "Supper Time On The Old Farm." Mr. Albright is a well known artist who specializes in pictures of children. He is a resident of Chicago and is spending the summer at Nashville, Indiana, with the Brown county colony of Hoosier artists.

'Good Old Summer Time' Crowds Winnetka Beach

With temperature mounting the past few days culminating Tuesday afternoon in typical "good old summer time," Winnetka beach proved a mecca for scores of the village citizens, and especially the children. A report from the beach at mid-afternoon, Wednesday, gave the air at 85 degrees and the water at 65, with the result that one of the largest crowds of the present season was there to enjoy a refreshing plunge. Large crowds attended later in the week, also.
