

Winnetkans Sell
Peonies to Swell
Tribune Ice Fund

Thinking of hot, sick, little babies living in back rooms above alleys, and of their weary mothers, and then thinking of Winnetka's shaded streets, with a cool lake to plunge into, golf courses to play on, showers and swimming pools, Mrs. R. Hofeld, 1131 Laurel avenue, Winnetka, sold 245 dozen peonies that she procured from the Northbrook gardens, for the benefit of the Chicago Daily Tribune Ice Fund for sick babies.

Mrs. Hofeld, assisted by little Georgia Schoenthal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Schoenthal, 159 Euclid avenue, Dan Wachs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wachs, 1144 Hamptondale road, and Allen Robinson, of Oakley avenue, Winnetka, took the peonies and sold them on Sheridan road, to people driving by.

It meant work, and took perseverance to sell the flowers and a worthy cause was benefited.

WINNETKA BUILDING NEWS

Vol. 1

Winnetka, Ill.

No. 18

We like most people.

There are many homes in Winnetka that could be wonderfully improved. Some slight modern additions might make a more salable house. We'd be glad to talk this matter over with you.

We read this in a trade paper: "By prompt action the fire company finally succeeded in saving the cement sidewalk in front of the building."

The Courtesy Home Service Co. just completed 600 feet of sidewalk on Provident Ave., near Willow St. Ask them about Alpha Cement.

Al Herman says he knows a fellow who drew up a note for $200, and then wrote across the face of it,— "If this note is not paid when due, it becomes null and void." We're going right over to the bank and have them put that clause on ours.

We can provide you with French doors, mirror doors, breakfast nooks, window seats and all those little artistic touches that make your home more liveable.

Ever hear of the Arkansas farmer who complained about the long sickness of his wife. He said, "I shore do wish she'd git well or somethin'."

The E. S. Wisdom Real Estate Co., are planning to build several homes in and around Winnetka. Mr. J. H. Patterson of Wilmette is superintendent of construction.

Dieting is easy until you get hungry.
