Byways Tempt the Stabilated Car

THE owner of a Stabilated car plans his jaunts and trips according to his desires for places and scenery—not according to road surfaces. His spare hours and holidays are spent in the woods and out over the hills—not poking along in the procession on the main highway.

Ye Olde Hay Loft to Open Again September 4

Ye Olde Hay Loft, Evanston's popular center of entertainment at Grove street and Sherman avenue will open for the fall season September 4, it was announced this week by Frint George, owner and manager. Many new features are planned for the coming season by Mr. George. Barney Richard's orchestra well known as the exponent of all things musical will tantalize the Hay Loft patrons in its own inimitable manner. Mr. George has been on hand for the last several weeks getting the place in readiness for the opening and promises not a few surprises for his patrons.

Websters on Canoe Trip in Waters of Northwoods

Towner K. Webster, Jr., 696 Prospect avenue, his son, Towner and his brothers Ronald and Henry Kitchell Webster of Evanston, left this week for a stay in the north woods. They expect to travel by canoe through the Canadian waters.

Henry Kitchell Webster, the well known author, has just completed the publication of his latest novel, "The Corbin Necklace."

Coach Thistlethwaite Returns to Evanston to Plan Grid Season

Plans for the coming fall football season will get under way in earnest at Northwestern this week with the return of Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite to the city. The Purple grid mentor will be back in the city Saturday from a two weeks' period which he spent at South Dakota Wesleyan where he conducted a coaching school.

Coach Thistlethwaite will then be on the scene until the opening of the football season on September 15. He will supervise the arrangements for practice fields now underway at the new stadium and the numerous other duties that must be attended to before the grid candidates report for practice.

One hundred of these aspirants for a position on the Purple eleven are expected back this season. Thirteen letter men led by Capt. Ralph "Moon" Baker will form the nucleus around which Thistlethwaite will build his eleven. Baker has completely recovered from the injury to his ankle which slowed him up last year.

Other veterans who will be back are Frank Schumacher and Paul Griffith, half backs; "Ziggy" Solheim, quarter back; Earl Bovik and Waldo Fisher, ends; Rudolph Schuler and Ralph Johnson, tackles; Otto Siebermann, Herman Cohen, Alvin Schuler, and Gordon Rahr, guards.

Sophomore prospects are coming up to fill the gaps. Chief of these are Arnold M. Karsten, a 210 pound guard from St. Joseph, Mich, Karsten played fullback in high school, but has been shifted to the line. John T. Ritcher is another St. Joe boy who looks promising. He plays at end.

The frosh full back ace was Robert Colin, a 175 pound Chicago prep product. Walter Homer of Moline, Ill., and Dean F. Klarr of Lincoln, Ill., are the half backs from the yearlings of last year. Bertrand Fox, 155, of Evanston is the quarter back and George Levison, his teammate at Evanston High, is another fullback prospect.

Health Center Has Best Day in History Wednesday

The Gross Point Health Center had the biggest day of its history last Wednesday when forty babies, nine of them new cases, were brought to the nutrition clinic held on that day. The officers of the center are Mrs. John A. Hoffman, chairman; Mrs. W. P. Seng, vice chairman; Mrs. Carl Widney, secretary and Mrs. A. W. Boylston, treasurer. Miss Myrtle Chrudinsky is the nurse and Dr. Robert Blessing, of Evanston, a nutrition specialist, was the visiting physician Wednesday. Officials of the organization were much pleased with the good showing made by the center.
