Columbia Music School Begins Its 26th Year

The branch school in Glencoe conducted by the Columbia School of Music will open its twenty-sixth year, September 13. The work will continue to be in charge of the young pianist, Olive Kriebs, it is explained. Miss Kriebs will have a corps of assistant teachers who have been studying in the main school under her direction. Miss Maud Jaeger, another member of the faculty of the main school, will devote part of her time to the Glencoe branch.

A SCREECHING STORY

Ye Olde Haylofte So Realistically Appointed a Barn Owl Takes Up His Habitat in the Eating Place

A wise old owl sat in a tree—but that was before he had heard of Ye Olde Haylofte.

Scarcely had the word gone the rounds of owldom when Mr. Screech, he of the drowsy eyelids, set out upon an investigation which led him into the rafter retreat of Frint George's celebrated dine and dance place, at Grove street and Sherman avenue, Evanston.

So realistically have the interior decorators appointed the place that Mr. Owl, once inside, decided to forsake his native habitat and take up residence with the big taxidermized specimen of his species that has held a point of vantage in the establishment since its inception last autumn.

How Mr. Screech got into the Haylofte is still a matter of considerable discussion. The point of this story is that he is there, trapped on the scene by Frint and his stalwart chef and now holding forth as exhibit A.

The other day he wandered from his cage but was found later toying with one of Frint's five-and ten-cent store mice on a window ledge. Disgusted with the disconcerting efforts of the nature fakers, he returned to his bastle resigned to the new-fangled diet of raw liver. Every self-respecting owl feeds upon mice and rats, but the Haylofte, realistically as it is arranged, is devoid of those delectables, and so Mr. Screech must make the best of rather unpretentious fare.

Ye Olde Haylofte will be opened for the winter season Saturday, September 4, at the dinner hour with a dinner unusually inviting and music furnished by a brand new seven-piece orchestra. Mr. Screech has been rehearsing for several days and will provide additional entertainment for those who demand local color with their diversion.

The "chicken yard" of the Haylofte has been entirely reappointed, now presenting a good old back-yard scene with ferocious looking tomcats and a very romantic moon and all the other essential details.

A new chef will hold forth in the "Milk House" this season, Frint confides—a new chef who is a specialist in southern foods. The management plans to serve special business lunches from 11:30 to 2 o'clock on week days and tea dansants have been arranged for the Saturday afternoons, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, with music furnished by the complete orchestra.

Ye Olde Haylofte's Sunday dinners have been one of the features of the place since its establishment last year and Frint promises that they will be right up to snuff again this winter.

Robert Hoefeler to Wed Mildred Freeman in Fall

It's out.

The well guarded secret of the approaching marriage of congenial Robert Hoefeler, the smiling adjutant of Winnetka post, No. 10, American Legion, is no longer a secret. The young woman is Miss Mildred Freeman of Chicago. The date of the wedding, it is said, is not definitely decided upon, but will probably be in the early fall.

The Legion members are suggesting November 11, Armistice day, an occasion which might be featured with a double celebration in which all former M. P. overseas "buddies" especially, are longing to participate.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Kudner, 16 Warwick road, Winnetka, have just returned from a month's visit on their ranch in New Mexico.
