Winnetka Woman Gives Musical While East

After a month spent in visiting in Sewickley, Pittsburgh and their vicinity, Mrs. Julian Clay Risk and little sons, Sharon and Donald, have returned to their home on Foxdale avenue. During her stay in Sewickley, Mrs. Risk was the guest of her aunt, Miss Emely J. Bell, and after leaving for Pittsburgh, was engaged to return when she gave a moonlight musicale at the Edson home. Mrs. Chas. W. Clark, president of the Tuesday Musical club, was at the piano.

The program was composed of Russian, Polish, Italian and two American groups. One number of especial interest was "The Lamp-lighter," composed and dedicated to Mrs. Risk, by Miss Marian Coryell of Winnetka.

where for four previous summers he also conducted classes in sociology and education. He was president last year of the State Teachers' association of Montana.

For the past seven years he has been superintendent of the public schools of the Hardin district, in Montana, a district, by the way, which embraces 3,600 square miles and with a mixed population, as to nationality, one-eighth of the school enrollment being Indians. Never-the-less, it is a district comprising a high-grade citizenship, Mr. Logan declares, and enjoys marked honors in an educational way. Their high school last year had the distinction of winning the state trophy for best sportsmanship in athletics, and also ranked fourth in the state scholarship contest.

The Hardin school system, he says, is especially known throughout that country for its emphasis on citizenship training, its democratic system of physical education and the use of methods of individual and group study, similar to those of the well known Winnetka system.
