GIRLS RETURN FROM WONDER TOUR ABROAD

Five New Trier High School Maidens Resume Studies After Extended European Visit

Five happy and reluctant New Trier High school girls returned home from two months in Europe, three of them on the liner, "Athenia" of the Cunard line at Montreal a week ago, and declared that they had spent a wonderful summer. The five girls were, Marjorie and Fay Reiner, of Winnetka, daughters of Mrs. Anna E. Reiner of 158 Woodland avenue, Lila Ullrich of Glencoe, Virginia Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marshall, 629 Greenwood avenue, Glencoe, and Mary Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lutz, 460 Hawthorne lane, Winnetka. The Misses Reiner stayed in England a few days longer to visit relatives, but remained with the party until that time.

Under the direction of Miss Jessie M. Sentney, teacher in the French department at New Trier, who has traveled in Europe before, the girls gained a liberal education in languages, art, and the art of traveling.

School Study and Aid

The object of the trip, aside from the value received from traveling alone, was to see if girls of high school age could apply their knowledge of the French language in a practical way, and to ascertain their appreciation of art from what they had read and studied.

"They did apply their French, and they did appreciate the great pieces of art, architecture and places of historical interest visited," Miss Sentney says.

Their trip was extensive and well-planned to include the important and striking. Sailing on the "Andania" from New York, they arrived at Cherbourg and went from there to Paris. While on the trip over, Miss Sentney was appointed chairman, to have charge of the ship's concert given on every boat crossing the ocean. This was an honor for Miss Sentney, and she immediately enrolled the services of her charges, four of them appearing in a song and dance act taken from "Sunny." Lila Ullrich, Virginia Marshall, Mary Lutz and Fay Reiner appeared in the act and were congratulated on giving one of the most popular of the stunts arranged.

Explore Paris

In Paris they motored over the great boulevards out on the Champs Elvsees to the Arc de Triomphe and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. They visited the Louvre, Luxembourg Gallery, Notre Dame Cathedral, Sainte Chapelle, and the Tomb of Napoleon.

Every high school girl has read and mourned over the Prisoner of Chillon, and these five girls saw the very castle of his incarceration. At Interlaken they visited the unpronounceable towns at the foot of the unpronounceable mountains, and they said that they loved Switzerland!

Venice in the moonlight captivated them, and who wouldn't be thrilled to drift in a gondola under the Bridge of Sighs! After visiting several other places that arrived in Rome in time to see the eight mile swimming race in the river Tiber. This famous swim is held annually, and the girls from New Trier, good judges of swimming, called it a great race.

Visit Shakespeare Land

Then from Genoa, Lucerne, Strasbourg, through Luxembourg to Brussels, where they saw the spot where Edith Cavell was shot, to The Hague and Amsterdam, with a trip to the Isle of Marken in the Zuyder Zee, and then to London. Here they took a restful five-day motor trip to the Shakespeare country, up and down the quiet lanes of England.

These girls are as feminine as any girls, and brought home pretty gowns from Paris, and a happy remembrance of many little trips, and unusual excursions.

On the boat returning, Miss Sentney had joint charge of Sports Day, in which they participated and took many prizes.

Miss Sentney brought four delicate etchings for the French room at the high school, including a lovely one showing Rheims cathedral before it was bombarded during the war, an interior of Rheims picturing the Rose Window, and a delightful etching of one of Paris' vanishing landmarks, the old book stalls.

Mrs. Maurice Lieber of the faculty of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college, instructor of the class in citizenship study, opened her year's work at the college Thursday, September 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bull and their family, who are at their summer home, a cabin in the woods of Canada, will not return to Winnetka until October 15.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher Moffett and two children, formerly of Chicago, have motored to Winnetka, and are making their home at 480 Elder lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McNie, 266 Forest avenue, and their family, returned September 4, from a motor trip to Grand View Lodge, Brainerd, Minn.

Fall Modes

in Velvet, Felt and Satin

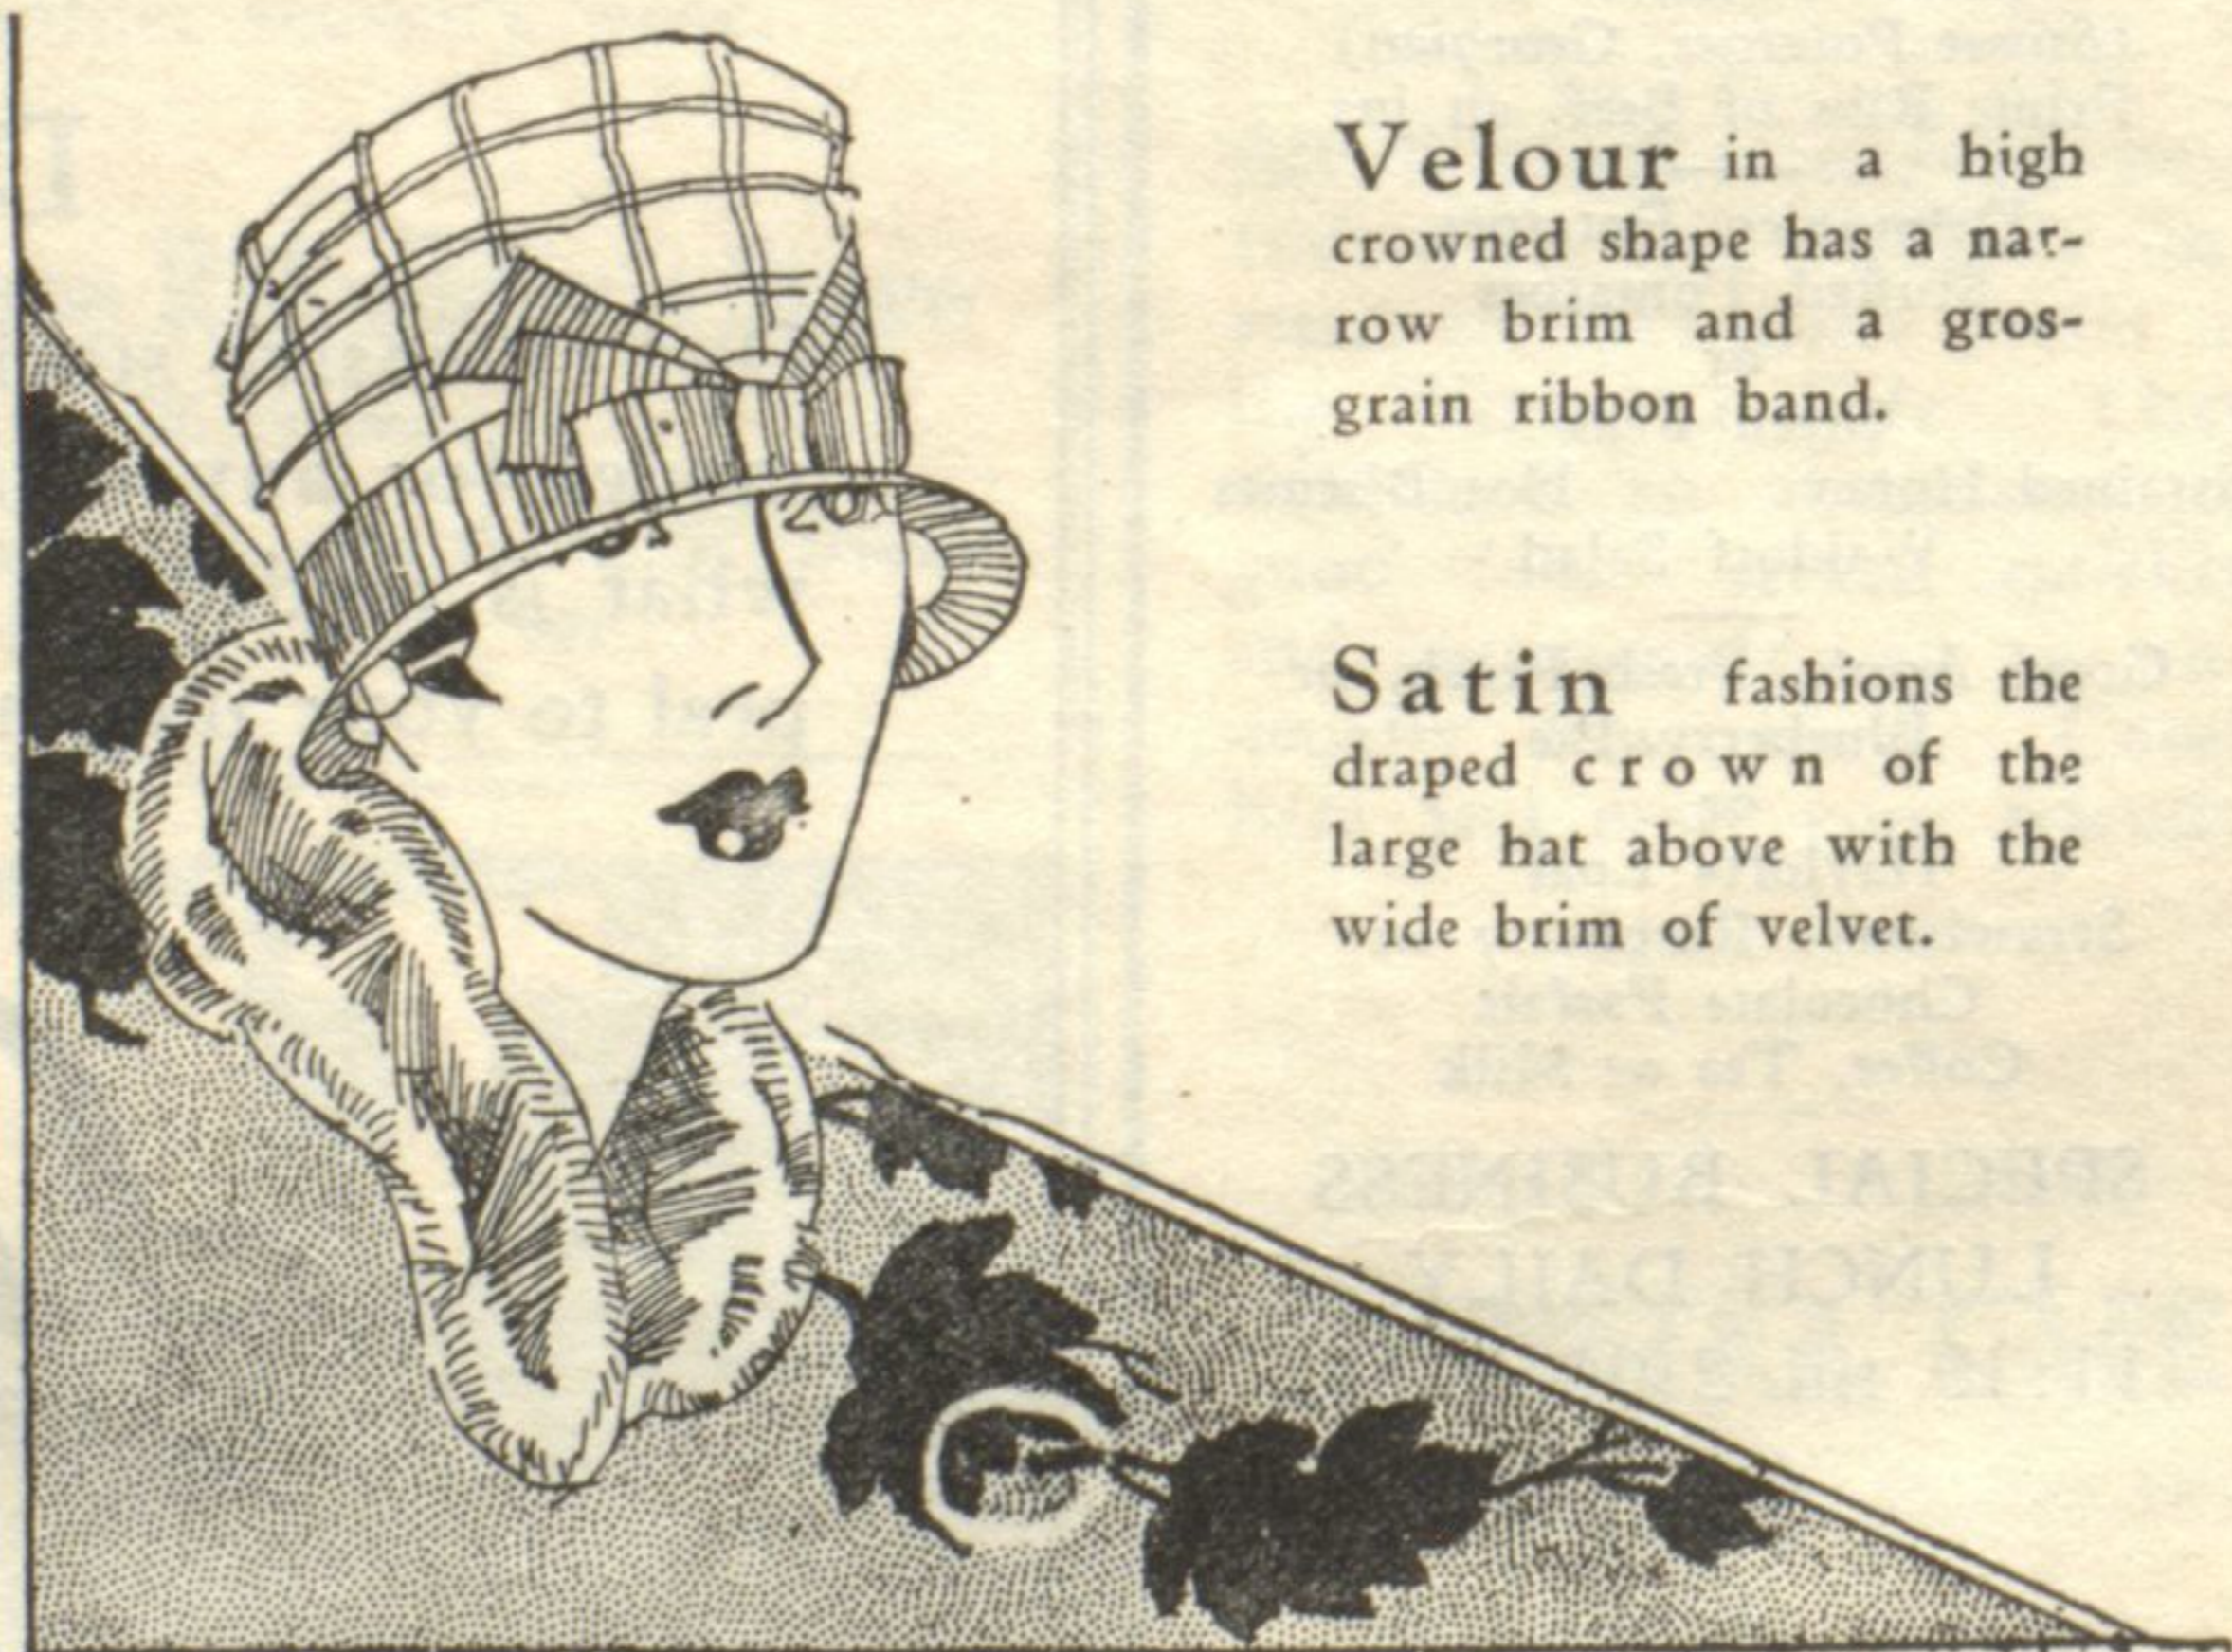

All the versatility one could wish for, from small collapsible shapes in berets and turbans to mushroom and sailor shapes with wide and narrow brims. The large hat continues its popularity in velvet, moire and felt, simply trimmed. All have high crowns, drapes and vivid colorings, all are the last word in millinery charm and correctness.
