Many people wonder how she has time to do the things she does. And she tells them that it is because she does not waste her time doing things that she can have done outside her house.

She sends all her laundry work to us—and with the many hours of spare time we give her, she is able to do many things that are far more pleasant than doing the "weekly wash" or supervising it.

A few words on the telephone or to Bill the Washington Laundry Man, and it would be just as easy for you to remove "Washday" from your life also.

The stores and theater are being erected by a syndicate composed of north shore residents and are to be ready for occupancy by next May, it is said. Both the stores and the theater will front on a new street cut through the property from Sheridan road, and there will be ample parking space for motorists.
