Tells of County's Work in Social Service Field

A record of the humanitarian activities of the bureau of social service of Cook county was presented to President Cermak by Virginia Sanford, head of that department, in her report of activities for the past year.

Through the efforts of this department, $103,146 was paid by relatives to their dependents; many divorce cases, where children were involved, were dismissed and this department has succeeded in eliminating "the borrowed wife and baby in criminal trials" by co-operation with the judges of the courts.

In addition to the investigations for the Probate and County courts for the preservation of small estates of feeble minded and releases from institutions, this department secured pledges from relatives who could afford to maintain inmates, who were charity wards of Oak Forest, to the amount of $11,556. Where it was found that relatives were financially able and morally and legally responsible, they were required to pledge $15 per month for relative inmates of the institution.

IN WEDDING PARTY

Little three year old Dorothy Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coram T. Davis of 132 Bertling lane, is starting early in her social career. Tuesday, September 28, she attended a bridal tea given by her cousin, Miss Margaret Knowlton of Evanston, whose marriage to Raymond M. Johnson will take place Saturday, October 2, at the Covenant Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston.

Little Dorothy, as one of the flower girls, will be the youngest member of the bridal party who will attend Miss Knowlton. She will be dressed in a pale blue crepe-de-chine dress and carry an ivory basket containing rose-petals.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubert Allen, 1405 Edgewood lane, will return from Long Lake, N. Y., early next week.

Public Service Co.
Invites Inspection
During Open House

Training of scores of Public Service company employes in the ability to guide parties of visitors through the company's various electric and gas generating stations during Open House Week from October 4 to 9, inclusive, is occupying the attention of the company's officials. The extent to which inquiries are being received at the company's district headquarters and the general offices in Chicago, is evidence of the widespread public interest in the open house week project, it is said. Thousands of visitors were escorted through the company's plants last year and those in charge of this year's arrangements are preparing for a considerably larger attendance, due to the interest growing out of last year's event.

The purpose of Open House Week, according to Charles W. Bradley, vice-president in charge of public relations and service, is to familiarize the general public throughout the company's territory with the organization which furnishes their gas or electric service.

"It is our belief," stated Mr. Bradley recently, "that people are interested in learning something about the manufacture of gas and electricity. From an educational and informative standpoint we feel that the public will welcome this opportunity of visiting one or more of the company's plants in order to see these essential commodities in the process of being made, and to have the process explained to them."

Thousands of invitations have been mailed to the company's customers, in each of which there has been enclosed an attractive complimentary inspection pass and a list of the properties which may be visited.

Dr. and Mrs. Sanger Brown of Kenilworth have gone on a motor trip through Canada. They left the second week in September, and are expected to return shortly.
