Pamphlet Tells Parents of Aims of Church School

The Winnetka Congregational church school manual is out for distribution among all the teachers, and a copy is also available for all the parents. The manual, as stated on the title page of the booklet, is "For Teachers and Parents," and sets forth the aim of the church school in the following concise manner:

"To introduce the members of the Church school to a growing experience in which there shall emerge:

"An idea of God as supremely revealed in the life and teachings of Jesus, a God continually revealing Himself.

"A knowledge of Jesus as the supreme revelation of God, and a glad and intelligent following of Jesus in His love and faith toward God and His love and service toward men.

"A conception of man as a son of God, the most important of His creations, who should love all his neighbors as himself.

"An appreciation of the world's beauty and resources as an expression of God's love and care for mankind.

"A constant worship of God in spirit and in truth.

"An intelligent and loyal allegiance to the church as a progressive means for realizing the spirit of Jesus in the ever changing social order.

"An understanding of these views in relation to the problems and conflicts of the world of our time.

"An increasing participation in cooperative Christian service.

"A deepening conviction that the Christian religion wherever it follows the teaching and practice of Jesus is the best way of life ever given to the world.

"The discovery that all living is inherently religious and that the Christian religion finds its expression in daily life."
