At the Movies

THE GRANADA

"The Pigskin Parade," a musical travesty on college football, will be staged by Benny Meroff and his rollicking band of twenty-five musicians at the Granada theater, Sheridan and Devon, beginning next week. All the thrills of the football stadium are packed into this enlivening bit of fun making by the Granada musical experts. A picture of unusual interest is being shown at the Granada this week entitled "Young April." Joseph and Rudolph Schildkraut, father and son, enact a father and son role in a thrilling story of European court intrigue. Also there will be a dazzling stage attraction called "Chinoland" produced by Jack Haskell. Benny Meroff and his band are entertaining with a musical hit entitled "The Wow Wows."

THE HOYBURN

The screen version of "The Gay Deceiver," the stage success which starred Leo Drichtenstein, with Lew Cody in the title role, will be at the Hoyburn Wednesday. Cody plays the part of a Paris matinee idol enmeshed in a hilarious series of domestic entanglements caused by his engaging mischief. Marceline Day, Carmel Myers and Dorothy Phillips are others of the cast.

"Variety," a picture that has been hailed by screen critics as one of the distinctive productions of the year, which recently completed several weeks' engagement at the Roosevelt theater, will be shown for just two days—Monday and Tuesday, at the Hoyburn theater.

"Variety" has its setting in the Berlin Winter garden. It is a love tale

Finds N. U. Men Rate Well in Health Tests

Physical condition of Northwestern university young men is considerably better than the average, according to Commander S. B. McKinney, in charge of the Naval unit on the Evanston campus. At Northwestern the shrinkage in recruiting because of physical disability has been only 40 per cent whereas the normal shrinkage is sixty per cent.

Commander McKinney made a report to President Scott this week on the examination of many applicants for position in the Northwestern university naval unit.

"Sixty per cent of the applicants are getting by the examining surgeons," he said. "At Annapolis and other schools the shrinkage is much greater and runs as high as sixty per cent, with only 40 per cent passing the examination. We have been examining numerous applicants at Northwestern university and now have a unit of fifty-eight, or only two short of the required number of sixty. We have high hopes of completing the roster within a few days."
