NEXT PATTON LECTURE TUESDAY, OCTOBER 26

"The Heart of the New Testament" Is Subject of Discussion at Parish House

As an evidence of the opportunities for co-operative work by church groups, the series of lectures which are being given under the joint auspices of Christ church and the Winnetka Congregational church are reported an unquestioned success.

Dr. Carl S. Patton found an even more enthusiastic group than at his first meeting when he addressed a large audience last Wednesday evening at the Parish House of Christ church on the question "Is the Old Testament Outgrown." Bringing the scholarly point of view of the theological seminary, yet with a sympathetic understanding of the perplexities which religious questions have for the mind of the laity, Dr. Patton's discussion last Wednesday evening on the values of the Old Testament went direct to the point of one of the great subjects of theological debate.

Dr. Patton began by pointing out the changed conception of the Old Testament which has resulted from the last fifty years of Biblical study, illustrating his points by definite examples.

Puts Pointed Question

"While we still teach the Old Testament in our Sunday schools," he said, "it is a fair question to ask how much of it has any religious value for the present day. Are not boys and girls very likely to get from it conceptions of God and his ways of working and his attitude toward men which they will carry over into adult life, and which will positively interfere with their forming of truly Christian conceptions?"

"What have we in the twentieth century to learn from the religion of the ancient Hebrews? How can we treat, and how are we to understand such stories as those of the Plagues in Egypt, the flood, the long-lived patriarchs, the tower of Babel, the Garden of Eden, the ascension of Elijah? What can we say of the ethics of the Old Testament? Are its spiritual ideals those that we should hold for ourselves and teach to our children?"

"And if they are not, why should we teach it at all? Has it any permanent value for the Christian world of our time? Wouldn't it be better to discard it from our church services—except perhaps the Psalms for liturgical purposes? Why shouldn't we go direct to the New Testament and the teachings of Jesus?"

Urges Question Box

It is obvious that a lecture of this type is provocative of many questions and it is Dr. Patton's wish that as many of his audience as care to bring with them questions which they would like to have him or the group discuss.

The next lecture in the series is to be given on Tuesday evening, October 26, instead of Wednesday evening as is the case with all of the other lectures. Dr. Patton's subject will be "The Heart of the New Testament," and he will speak as before in the Parish House of Christ church, Oak and Linden streets. The auditorium having been filled to overflowing heretofore, arrangements have been made to secure additional space and the public is cordially invited to attend. Lectures begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Wyndham H. Channer of 562 Cherry street returned Friday, October 15, after a week's eastern trip.

Carter Underwear Week October 23rd to 30th

MOST MOTHERS are considering at this time, the underwear problem for the family.

EACH member has their own idea as to the style of garment they prefer and in which they will feel the most comfortable.

WHY not have a talk with the folks right now and decide on CARTERS' Underwear.

ONE CHILD may feel the cold keenly and require a long sleeve, ankle length garment, while the more robust sister or brother will wear socks and want a knee length garment which is fashioned with short sleeves. The miss who will attend dancing classes should wear a low neck, no sleeve union suit.

SOME MOTHERS cling to the idea of the separate two-piece garments for various reasons. Of these we also maintain a complete stock.

EACH CARTER GARMENT is made in four different weights: medium, and heavy cotton, wool or silk and wool, and, lest mother forgets herself, as mothers are apt to do, we call your attention to the fact that for

ONE WEEK ONLY WE ARE OFFERING A $3.50
