Winnetka Women Are Arranging Lectures

By Julie R. Adams

A group of Winnetka women, Mrs. Robert Gay, Mrs. William Hale, Mrs. James W. Prindiville, Mrs. Charles Stacey and Mrs. Walter Strong, compose a committee on arrangements for a course of lectures to be given by Julie R. Adams five successive Tuesday mornings, commencing October 26. The talks will be given at 10:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. William G. Hibbard, 840 Willow road.

Miss Adams has returned from a summer's trip to Europe, and will embellish her talks on current events with information personally gleaned abroad.

Her remarks will be taken from the pertinent events with which she came in contact while abroad. She will speak of her four or five weeks' stay in England, the most of which was spent in London during the most critical time of the coal strike. She was in Paris during the crisis of the franc, the fall of the Briand and Heriot governments, and the establishment of the present regime of Poincare, and got all the information she could obtain from newspapers of varying opinions.

A fortnight of her time was passed in Geneva, Switzerland, the center of international study, where one meets people from all over the world. She gave a week of her time to the Geneva Institute of International Relations, of which she will speak in her first talk, and passed another week at Dr. Zimmer's school where she heard lectures and discussions on international subjects in French and English.

She noted with interest the changes that had been made in Italy in the Fascist government. This, Miss Adams says, was a difficult task, as "strict censorship makes the newspaper of no use, and discussions with strangers are unwise."

She made a short trip to Germany, touching upon both the occupied and unoccupied zones, and spent three days in Holland.

Those assisting the hostess on this occasion will be Mrs. W. F. Krippe, Mrs. D. Coyne, Mrs. C. Englehardt, and Mrs. H. S. Klein.

Woman's Club Meets

The second regular meeting of the Winnetka Woman's club was held on Oct. 19, Mrs. Arthur W. Cushman, presiding. Club members were reminded of the program to be given by Madame Augusta Lenska of the Chicago Civic Opera company, on Monday, October 25, for the benefit of the nursery school to be opened in the autumn of 1927 in one of the Winnetka public school buildings.

Realizing that members of the Woman's club would be vitally interested in the War Memorial which is being furthered in the village, the announcement was made of a group of fifty citizens who will present a plan for such a memorial at a meeting, to be held Wednesday, October 27, in the Council chamber of the Village hall.

The Glencoe Woman's Library club is to have a most interesting speaker on Thursday, November 4, when Horace Bridges will speak on "The Art of Renewing One's Youth." Members of the Winnetka Woman's club are cordially invited to attend this meeting. Mrs. Cushman announced, and reservations for the luncheon should be made with her before Tuesday evening, November 2.

An announcement of great interest was made for the meeting on November 2, when Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, will speak before the club.

The organization meeting of Miss Kate Watkins Tibbal's class in fiction and verse writing will be held on Tuesday, October 26, at 1:45 o'clock, in the parlor of the Woman's club. The first regular meeting will be held Tuesday, November 2, directly following the regular club program. Those interested please communicate as soon as possible with Mrs. Ernest Ballard, Winnetka 1082.

Following these several announcements, Mrs. Cushman turned the meeting over to the chairman of the education committee, Mrs. S. George Levy, who introduced Thomas J. McCormack, who spoke on "Problems of Adolescent Discipline."

Mr. McCormack, a leader in educational lines, explained that by discipline he meant the ancient meaning of education, rather than the modern meaning. He felt that in considering questions of conduct it was necessary to avoid all general rules, since in the field of conduct it is necessary to avoid all general rules, for in the field of conduct, we are dealing with problems that cannot be settled in our souls.

Mr. McCormack went on to say that "ethics can be learned but cannot be taught. We must possess the wisdom to be learned only through experience, and ethical truth has been reached only through religious experiences. It is advisable to cultivate the technique of will control. Parents can help by teaching punctuality as a spiritual practice. Self-control leads to the control of others and is the key to the control of environment."

"The human sciences are expected to accomplish the same results as the physical sciences. The human sciences should not be expected to construct the future as too many variables are involved. The construction of free ethical personality should be the end in view."

"The great problem is in the education of the emotions," Mr. McCormack emphasized. "We should endeavor to construct the right kind of
