

PSYCHOLOGY CLINIC BEGINS BIGGER YEAR

Northwestern Clinic Treated Two Hundred Cases Last Year, Says Prof. Morgan

Two hundred individuals were received and treated in the Northwestern university psychology clinic in the past year, it is stated by Dr. John J. B. Morgan, a leading member of the staff, in a report sent to the office of President Walter Dill Scott. That was the case with the north shore clinic open only one afternoon a week. This year, Prof. Morgan says, the clinic will be open both Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

But more than this, in order to make the work more effective, the Junior league of Evanston is to co-operate extensively with the clinic. The league has provided a worker for the clinic in the person of Miss Buck, recently of the Psychopathic hospital of Chicago, and she is to act this year as clinic visitor.

"The league members are likewise donating the use of their cars to transport those who care to come to the clinic from their homes," reports Professor Morgan. "The different members also are helping in the actual conduct of the clinic on two afternoons each week, at 1882 Sheridan road, the new home of the Northwestern psychological laboratory.

"This clinic is putting into practice the most recent principles of mental hygiene and bids fair to become a vital factor in the mental health program of the north shore.

"A large proportion of the individuals who develop mental diseases, become criminals, or fail to get along with other people, begin with minor mental difficulties. If such persons are helped in time and are trained to develop different attitudes toward life their progress toward a mental break can be checked.

"The function of the clinic is to get people to come who have the first signs of failure to adjust properly and give them instructions that will keep them from falling into vicious mental habits. In this way it is hoped that the incidence of mental disease can be decreased.

Rev. A. E. Rohrbach to Tell Church's Spiritual Calling

The Rev. A. E. Rohrbach, of the First Scandinavian Evangelical church, 886 Elm street, Winnetka, will preach in English next Sunday evening, October 24, on the subject, "The Spiritual Calling of the Church." The service will begin at 7:45 o'clock. Preceding the sermon, a vocal solo by Miss Mildred Grant will be given. Mr. Rohrbach, in announcing the service, says: "It has truly been said, 'It is as much a part of Christianity to know that Christ is in His church as to know that God is in Christ.'"
