Guild's Art Museum Project Meets Favor of North Shore Folk

The favor with which north shore residents are meeting the first steps taken by the Evanston University guild to advance the interests of an art museum project in Evanston, is reported an encouraging item of guild activity just resumed for the season.

Offers of the loan of valuable paintings to be a part of the November art exhibit to be hung in the ballroom of the Orrington hotel and to include local loan entries, have been made from many viewing the present loan exhibit there from the Art Institute.

Groups of public school children and club groups are planning visits to the showing at especial times. A special arrangement was made yesterday for a visit from school groups and a gathering there of members of the Evanston Art commission and art teachers of the city.

DISTRIBUTE BOOKLET

Copies of a booklet containing a sermon on "A Marching Religion," by the Rev. James Austin Richards of the Winnetka Congregational church and printed by a friend, will be ready for distribution following the morning and evening services, Sunday.

James (Ziggy) Solheim of Evanston, and Walter Holmer, of Moline, both prominent members of the Purple football squad, last week were awarded scholarships by the Northwestern Club of Chicago which annually gives one or more scholarships to deserving Northwestern students. Holmer is a sophomore and Solheim, a senior. The latter was the recipient of a similar award from the Evanston Rotary club last year.

Wieboldt Hall of Commerce, on Northwestern's new McKinlock campus, was in use last week for the first time, but there was no formal opening of the structure. More than 3,700 students have registered in the downtown branch of the school of Commerce so far, over 300 more than were registered last year at this time. Neva Leslie, in charge of registration, has announced that all classes are full.

Illinois has the first steel skeletoned skyscraper, erected in Chicago in 1884 from a consignment of the first steel beams produced in America.

For the greatest "actual operation" exhibit of heat treating at a steel convention in Chicago, nearly a million dollars worth of gas furnace equipment was installed.
