has long outgrown the mere recognition contest. The students are now learning form and nationality in music. They are taught to recognize by his style and idiom the composer of compositions unfamiliar to them. While it would be unfair to compare throughout the work of students of high school age with that of younger children, it is nevertheless proper to note that New Trier High school has an excellent senior orchestra of forty-three members, a junior orchestra of twenty-five and a band. To many of these are loaned, "not rented out," musical instruments belonging to the school and representing a capital investment of $1,000. Furthermore, over one thousand students receive weekly one private lesson and three ensemble lessons, also without charge. Nor has choral work been neglected, with over three hundred children singing standard choral works.

Attendance at the Children's concerts in Chicago, proved impracticable for north shore children, whereupon Mrs. Cotton succeeded in arranging for a series of four such concerts at the high school auditorium. These concerts were given by the Little Symphony orchestra, consisting of forty first stand men from the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the able leadership of Mr. George Dasch. At the same time a series of seven evening concerts was arranged for the adults. The latter series has almost from the first financed the annual deficit in the children's series which has never been fully or sufficiently subscribed, and the continuance of which is threatened by lack of support. In addition to one year of musical appreciation study New Trier High school requires of its students as a condition to graduation, one year's attendance at these concerts. In passing it must be remarked that not even the vision, courage and perseverance of a Mrs. Cotton could have accomplished much without the appreciative and enthusiastic support at every turn from the principal at New Trier, Frederick E. Clerk.

The figures for the present season of the Children's concerts are characteristic so far as concerns the Winnetka public schools. Eight hundred tickets have been subscribed. Kenilworth leads with the highest proportion of its quota. Winnetka stands at the bottom of the list, with a total subscription of 110, of which Skokie school, with an attendance of about 400 students, contributes 22.

Verily: "There is much to be done, but we have a beginning."

Sincerely yours,
Genevieve Whitman.

Chicago Rotarians Elect J. VanderVries President

John N. VanderVries of 968 Pine street, division manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has been elected president of the Chicago Rotary club, to succeed Norman C. Mather.

The Chicago club has a membership of 500 Chicago business and professional men, and has the honor of being the first club of the more than 2,300 clubs which are now found in thirty-five countries encircling the globe.

This is the second time that the presidency of the Chicago club has been held by a Winnetkan, the former incumbent being A. C. Johnson, vice-president of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, of 266 Forest avenue.
