At Woman's Society

The Woman's society of the Winnetka Congregational church met Wednesday, November 17, at 10 o'clock.

Since one of the chief objectives of the society is to furnish an opportunity for broad and sympathetic social contact and since it is a well-established fact that women "visit" most effectively while their fingers fly, the morning session is devoted to friendly sewing. Even the business of the society conforms to this design.

Wednesday was a day full of good things. As the women sewed, Mrs. George W. W. Gordon took them on an economical, expeditious, and most illuminating trip around the world, giving them glimpses of the work in mission fields. At 12 Mrs. Heber Smith took charge of the devotional exercises.

Miss Katsu Yonezawa, a Japanese maiden, studying in Chicago, sang delightfully during the luncheon and again at the close of the address. Her selections included familiar hymns both in Japanese and English; a characteristic Japanese song, without accompaniment, and the much-loved, "O Rest in the Lord." Of particular interest to her audience was her rendition of "Just For Today," a song written by Mrs. Jane Bingham Abbott, an aunt of Mrs. James Austin Richards. Mrs. Burton Atwood accompanied Miss Yonezawa.

Miss Yonezawa was charming to look upon in her Japanese costume. Her gentle personality, rich voice and clear English diction gave pleasure to all.

Raymond Oshimo, who is at present studying for an advanced degree at the Chicago Theological seminary, was the speaker of the afternoon, his subject being, "The Japanese in Hawaii and the United States." As Mr. Oshimo was born of Japanese parents in Hawaii he spoke with feeling upon the subject.

Mr. Oshimo said in part, "these children of Japanese parents born either in Hawaii or the United States, educated in the American schools are in fact American citizens; such they are urged to become and to adopt American standards of life. They attend the universities, frequently become honor students only to find it impossible upon graduation to obtain proper employment. Menial jobs at low wage standards can be secured but the professions for which they are trained and fitted present closed doors. Assimilation has been urged upon these youths. In Hawaii it has been demonstrated that they can be assimilated, but when it comes to the point, perhaps the economic point, the United States discriminates against them."

Mr. Oshimo read the letter of a Japanese graduate of a middle western university, an honor student in electrical engineering, member of honorary societies, describing his eighteen months' attempt to secure professional employment.

Mr. Oshimo made a plea for fair play for these youths who are forced into the position of "educated hoboese," and often come to dire economic necessity, pointing out that it is not strange that many of them become bitter and antagonistic. "But, the United States is also a loser," said Mr. Oshimo. The strong democracy is not one composed of one strain only, but that formed by the assimilation of many types. The Japanese have a proud heritage upon which to draw and could contribute worthily.

The entire program was in the charge of the world friendship committee.
