F. H. Gathercoal Receives Award in Magazine Contest

F. H. Gathercoal, real estate dealer of 1213 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, who is well known as a designer and builder of homes, has been awarded a certificate of merit by the Building Age and National Builder, one of the leading magazines of its kind in the United States. The award was made in accordance with terms of a campaign or contest conducted by the magazine to find the best selling homes in America. Design, construction and other points were taken into consideration.

Mr. Gathercoal was sixth in the entire list of fifteen, and quite naturally is much elated over the recognition which has been accorded his building activities. He has built many homes in Wilmette, his activities the past season being confined very largely to Seventeenth street.

Letter From Editor Pekar

In a letter received by Mr. Gathercoal from Charles G. Pekar, editor in chief of the Building Age and National Builder, informing him of his success in their contest, Mr. Pekar says:

"In accordance with this we are sending you securely packed in a box, the Certificate of Merit, awarded to you, and we herewith send you a letter from the president of our corporation, entitling you to a life subscription to Building Age and National Builder."

President's Letter

President Frank Meyers in his letter to Mr. Gathercoal says:

"It is certainly a distinction to be one of the winners of a Certificate of Merit which we offered in our campaign to find the best selling homes in America, and I congratulate you upon having your work chosen by the judges for this award.

"The entrance condition of this contest entitles you to the certificate and to a life subscription to Building Age and National Builder. Accept this letter as a receipt for a paid-up subscription. I hope we may be obligated to furnish the paper for many, many years.

"You have every right to be proud of your work in better home building and we are proud to bear a part with you in this movement for improving home construction in America."
