

HAPGOOD TO SPEAK

Internationally Famous Journalist and Diplomat to Address Sunday Evening Club November 21

Norman Hapgood, noted as journalist, diplomat and lecturer, will speak before the Wilmette Sunday Evening club, November 21, on the subject, "What is Progress Today?" Madame Edith Bideau Normelli will be the soloist at the services.

Norman Hapgood has been prominently connected with public issues since he became editor of Collier's Weekly in 1905. Leaving that publication in 1912, he became chairman of the committee that nominated and elected Mayor Mitchell in New York. He was for three years editor of Harper's Weekly—until its merger with the Independent.

Mr. Hapgood was president of the League of Free Nations' association early in 1919, when he was selected by President Wilson to go as Minister to Denmark.

He spent the winter of 1921 in Washington, D. C., writing special articles for the Universal Service, and as editor of Hearst's International until its merger with the Cosmopolitan.

He is author of books on the lives of Lincoln, Washington, and Webster, and his latest book, published in 1921, called "The Advancing Hour," and deals with current problems.

Fifty Lightweight Boys Weigh in for Basketball

One of the outstanding points of the basketball weighing at New Trier High school recently was the large number of freshmen boys. For them the trouble was not in getting down to one hundred and thirty pounds but getting near it from the other side. There were very few, in fact, only three of last year's first team lightweights present, but the close of the football season will undoubtedly see some of the old fellows back.
