Romantic Fiction Popular

The following quotations were given in the International Book Review at the conclusion of a comprehensive resume of the new books of this season, which will be most gratifying to those who have deplored the seeming popularity of the highly sexed novel.

The Penn Publishing company of Philadelphia . . . wrote in part:

"Our feeling is that there is a strong reaction against the sex novel, and even the so-called highbrow realistic novel. The semi-erotic or sex book has a lowering effect on the morals of the country in general and on the youth of the country in particular. Our feeling is that there is a bigger demand for romantic fiction. There is always an interest in the mystery and detective story. The historical tale also will always be in vogue, as well as tales of adventure."

The J. B. Lippincott company of Philadelphia, observed that the extreme type of fiction is "more widely talked about than read," and that "the clean, romantic, or stirring adventure tale will always command the wider public.

A memorial exhibition of Joseph Pennell's work including illustrated books is being given at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and will continue through December.

Three Sorority Houses Are Up to Second Story

Three sorority houses on Northwestern's new women's campus, now under construction at University place and Orrington avenue, have been raised to the second story and the interior work started. These—the Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pi Beta Phi and Gamma Phi Beta houses—are the furthest advanced of all in the east block which is also to contain the Delta Gamma, Alpha Omega Pi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Tri Delta and Alpha Chi Omega houses. Although all the houses are to be ready for occupancy at the same time, the Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Phi, Kappa Delta and Delta Zeta houses, which are to occupy the west block, will not be well started until next spring.

To see the West Point Cadets and Annapolis Midshipmen on parade in downtown Chicago, or at Soldier's Field, take North Shore Line trains. Operating directly into the Chicago Loop and stopping at five Loop stations, the North Shore Line delivers you close to the scene of all activities. To reach Soldier's Field, the scene of the Army-Navy football game, take North Shore Line trains to Roosevelt Road station, then walk east.
