Georgian Will Be Scene of Exhibit of Ufer Paintings

The new Georgian hotel, Evanston, has secured a group of paintings by Walter Ufer, N. A., well known as a painter of the Taos school, and is opening the group to public view on Monday, December 6. The exhibition will be held in the hotel, which is at Davis and Hinman streets. The exhibition will run till December 20, the hours being 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening.

To anyone who follows American art the name Walter Ufer will call up a manner of painting that is forceful and always pleasing in its characteristic subjects and coloring of that section of the country which he best loves to paint. Art lovers of the north shore will be delighted at the opportunity to view the assembled work of this artist.

RECOVERS FROM ACCIDENT

Mrs. Caleb Busick of Winnetka, who met with an automobile accident in Rogers Park two weeks ago, has returned from the hospital and, under the care of a nurse, now is convalescing at her home.

Mrs. Hathaway Watson of 900 Sunset road returned yesterday from a visit to her daughter, Miss Marguerite Watson, who is attending school in the East.

MEN STUDY GOSPELS

Sunday Morning Men's Class Enjoys
Unusual Opportunity in Discussions
With Rev. J. A. Richards

(Contributed)

Twenty-five men sat in the American Legion room of Community House in wrapt attention. Each was doing some very earnest thinking. Each was conscious of the fact that twenty-four others were thinking as earnestly as he. The sense of this community of earnest thinking was impressive.

What they were thinking of was an old, old story, but dramatic and human as only the old stories that have survived the centuries can be. It was the story of the woman brought in her shame to Jesus by a group of men hostile to them both. Again "that fine courtliness, that fine gentlemanliness" of Jesus was reversed. Even an outcast woman was treated gently at his hands at the same time that he shamed the accusers, without scolding them, by the challenge "Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone."

The speaker pointed out how much the attitude of a man toward such a woman reflects the extent to which the spirit of Christ has captured him. Does he scorn her, does he insult her or does he without any response to her advances pity her and think of her as a product of the civilization of which he is a responsible part? The story under consideration can have no doubt as to which was Jesus' way.

The leader of this group is Rev. James Austin Richards, who in the intimacies of the weekly sessions of the Men's Sunday Morning class is making many new and valuable contacts with the men who are attending. Many new men of the village would enjoy the freedom of discussion and these intimacies with Mr. Richards if they should drop in of a Sunday morning at 9:30. The class is studying together the Gospel of John.

An interesting sidelight from last Sunday's discussion is that the spiritual values of these old familiar passages lose nothing at the hands of modern scholarship. Scholars generally agree that this entire story of the woman taken in sin was not a part of the original but an interpolation that crept in later. Yet that does not in the least lessen its authenticity as a story of Jesus and scholars are the first to concede that our biographical material about Jesus would have suffered a heavy loss if this, even though an interpolation, had failed to come down to us.

A New Book of Salads!

THE EDGEWATER BEACH
HOTEL SALAD BOOK

Over 700 Salad and
Salad Dressing Recipes.

Natural Color
Illustrations

Beautiful
DeLuxe Binding

A Worth-While
Christmas Gift

THE most complete book of salads ever published is now ready for sale. Recipes for more than 700 salads and salad dressings are given. Arnold Shircliffe, the author, is caterer of the Edgewater Beach Hotel, famed for its salads, and all of the salads in the book have been listed on the menus of this hotel during the past year.

The Edgewater Beach Hotel Salad Book is illustrated in natural colors, the finest kind of color work the printing arts can produce—natural color pictures made direct from the salads. Mr. Shircliffe is a student of "Eating for Health" and strikes that keynote throughout the book. Many author's notes make the book interesting reading.

A rich binding of karatol in "salad green" color makes this book a handsome gift. Sent postage prepaid upon receipt of price. Five dollars.
