

College Students Enjoy Xmas Party and Dinner

Students of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college held their annual dormitory Christmas party in Marienthal Wednesday evening. Turkey dinner with all the "fixins" was served in the gaily decorated dining room to the tune of "Jingle Bells" and other Christmas songs, and after dinner the lounge was filled to overflowing with students and a Christmas tree, Santa Claus, and piles of mysteriously wrapped gifts, one for each student in the dormitory, for house mothers and for members of the faculty who were guests of the students.

The very appropriate gifts, selected with great care by each student for another girl whose name she had drawn, were accompanied by clever jingles, and the reading of these couplets by the recipients caused as much merriment as Santa's remarks in presenting the gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hill entertained the Walden road Neighborhood Bridge club Wednesday evening.

College Girls Wake With Singing of Xmas Carols

Christmas carols by the girls from one of the apartments of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college dormitories awakened the students in the other apartments bright and early this morning. In the grey dawn, came the softened tread of many feet, the flickering light of many candles, and the music of many voices blending in the joyous carols which rang out sweet and clear, then died away in the distance.

Breakfast for the carolers was served in front of the open fire in the living room of Marienthal and President Edna Dean Baker told one of the Christmas stories before the girls left for classes.

Lawrence Perkins, a graduate of New Trier High school residing in Evanston, is returning from Cornell university December 19, for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Hallett E. Thorne of 95 Indian Hill road, has returned from a several weeks' trip to New York City.
