

Composition Introduced at Chamber Music Concert

The second program of the North Shore Chamber Music association's season's concerts was given at the Kenilworth club on Sunday afternoon December 12, by the Muenzer trio under most auspicious conditions. The large hall was used which gave much better opportunity for the players. The first number was the E flat major quartet by Beethoven. The viola part being played by Fred Rittner. The music was especially acceptable and received such enthusiastic commendation from the audience that the players gave as an encore one movement from Schumann's E flat major quartet.

The other number on the program was a novelty in this country for it never had been played here before, as far as Mr. Muenzer could learn. It was a trio in D major by Ewald Staesser, a most satisfying composition and so well received that the quartet gave as an encore Schumann's Cantata Cantabile. The next concert will be given March 13.

Among the group of Winnetka boys who will spend the vacation season at home is John Roos, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Roos of 491 Hawthorn lane. Mr. Roos is a member of the sophomore class at Princeton and expects to return home Sunday, December 19.

PRAISES SYMPHONY

Orchestral Association Concert Brings Out Large Audience Despite Unfavorable Weather Conditions

By CRITIC

The people who braved inclement weather last Monday night enjoyed one of the best orchestral programs of the season.

Headed by "Romeo and Juliet," overture Fantasia by Tschaiikowsky—great, if not the greatest composer of orchestra music—the Little Symphony Orchestra of Chicago rendered in a very acceptable manner.

A violin concerto by Max Bruch, unsurpassed as a composer for the violin, was the offering of Herman Felber, concert master of the orchestra, who captivated the audience with his rendering of the Concerto No 2 D minor, and demonstrated that he knew Bruch as well as his violin.

Franz Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody," always popular, was well played by the orchestra, which encored with "Liebestraum," Liszt's most familiar composition.

The orchestral concerts would be incomplete without Johann Strauss' waltz, "On the Beautiful Blue Danube," and the strains of this well known piece were played with vim and precision.

Dvorak, the great interpreter of folk songs of his country as well as our own negro melodies, was the concluding composer on the program and his "Two Slavonic Dances" were gracefully played.

We have always referred to the orchestra as "Mr. Dasch and his men," but we find that the expression is now a "misnomer," judging from the three women instrumentalists, whose playing was noticeable.

All food in Illinois' new Stateville penitentiary is cooked by electricity.

Talks on Society

Prof. Ferdinand Schevill of the University of Chicago lectured on the "Historical Tendencies of Society" as a part of the contemporary thought series at Northwestern university. He gave the last of his talks Wednesday.

Kenilworth May Secure Carrier Mail Delivery

Whether or not Kenilworth is to have a carrier postal delivery system, rests entirely in the hands of the Post Office department of the United States Government, according to Village and local postal officials.

Every measure that it is now possible to take has already been taken. Some time ago 423 questionnaires were mailed to those residents who either did not answer the first one sent them or else had moved into the village since that time. Of this number 395 answers were received: 300 voting for free delivery, 94 against, 1 non-committal and 28 failing to answer.

With these figures as a basis it is estimated that more than seventy-five percent of the residents desire the service to be installed. According to Postmaster Blanchard, two men would be required to handle the delivery, and as government agents were recently sent to survey local conditions a favorable decision is expected to be received from Washington.

Country Day Aids Old Santa in Toy Making

Santa Claus visited the North Shore Country Day school Thursday and gathered up the products of the school's Toy Shop, which has been so active the past few weeks in preparation for Christmas. The toys were distributed throughout the various grades of the school, from whence will radiate joy among worthy children in Chicago who are to be the recipients of this happy Yuletide spirit and custom at North Shore Country Day.

Robert English, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. English of 375 Hawthorn lane, is among the Princeton men returning for the holidays. Mrs. English is a graduate of New Trier High school, where he distinguished himself in dramatics. He is a freshman at Princeton.

Sheldon Gordon, son of the George W. Gordons of 874 Lincoln avenue, Winnetka, will arrive in Winnetka Monday, December 20, from the East. Sheldon is a senior at Princeton university.

N. U. Cage Squad Faces Powerful Enemy From Drake

A busy week-end faces the Northwestern basketball team which on Saturday night takes on the fast traveling quintet from Drake university and then, on the following Monday night, meets up with the formidable aggregation from Michigan State Aggies of Lansing, Mich. Both games will be played at Patten gym in Evanston.

Defeat at the hands of the powerful Wabash five last Saturday night in the opening game of the season served to give Maury Kent a line on the material which he will have to work with during the coming season. The offensive strength of the Purple aided the team to role up a total of thirty points but the guards showed need of a bit more experience. Coach Kent is faced with the task of developing a new pair of guards this season out of a number of sophomore candidates.

Heroïd Gleichmann, sophomore center and forward, who worked in his first varsity game against Wabash, showed much promise and should prove a valuable man to have around this season. The big blond boy who hails from Rockford, Ill., sank five baskets and four free throws during the evening. He started at center and later performed at a forward post, Fisher taking over the pivot duties.

Fisher was slowed up somewhat by an injured knee but should be going in his old time style again by the time the conference season opens on January 8 against Illinois. Little Bobby Rusch played a bang-up game at forward while Sachse, Owen, Heidenmen and Foster all performed creditably well at the guard positions during the evening.

Drake will bring a formidable basketball five to Evanston for Saturday's encounter. The Bulldogs from Des Moines scored convincing victories over Illinois and Chicago last season and are out to increase their conference wins by upsetting Northwestern.

Capt. Chuck Everett, light and diminutive running guard, who scored 148 field goals and sank fifty-six free throws in forty-four games, leads the Drake contingent of cage artists. He will be assisted by six other letter men including Barney Meyers and William Parisho, forwards; Clarence Simpson and Ralph Harley, centers; and Preston Lawless and Arthur Ashby, guards.

Drake bases much of its hopes for a win over the Wildcats in the performance of Everett who winds up his college career this semester. His 352 points against Missouri Valley opponents mark him as a dangerous man once he gets the ball in his hands.

MOTORCYCLE FIRE

A leak in the gas line of a motorcycle ridden by W. F. Quinbach caused it to burst into flames at Cherry and Chestnut streets last Saturday. The Fire department extinguished the blaze. Damage to the motorcycle was about $10.

The University of Illinois will send home a large contingent of Winnetka young people, when it closes for the holiday season. Among those returning on December 22 will be Miss Jessie West, daughter of Mrs. John Corder West of 937 Gordon terrace. Marshall Root, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Root, 470 Sunset road, is also expected to arrive in Winnetka next week from the University of Illinois.

Sidney C. Eastman, 255 Melrose avenue, Kenilworth, is rapidly recovering his health, and will probably come home before Christmas.
