

North Shore Society Relaxes After Gay Holiday Season

Sarg Marionettes Coming to Present Story of Ali Baba

By JEAN TEN BROECK

Tony Sarg's Marionettes have enthralled north shore children, and have won a place in the hearts of their mothers, older sisters, aunts, cousins and friends. At this time when society has sighed a deep sigh after strenuous holidays, and older boys and girls are wearily embarking on special trains to whisk them back to things academic and to approaching and dreaded "mid-years," the announcement of the coming of marionettes for north shore performances strikes a note somewhat different.

At the Evanston Woman's club Friday afternoon and evening, January 21, at 4 and 8, and at Skokie school, Winnetka, Wednesday afternoon and evening, at 4 and 7:30 o'clock, Rachel Busey Kinsolving will present Tony Sarg's Marionettes in "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves."

Information concerning this production discloses that "Tony Sarg has surpassed himself in his new production. He has created the most villainous set of robbers seen on any stage, and an extensive menagerie of donkeys, camels, elephants, sheep, all of which play an important part in the production. The Geni and the Fisherman, Sinbad the Sailor, the Magic Carpet, and all the characters and their deeds recorded in the Arabian Nights are faithfully reproduced in all reality, yet retain the phantasy that is a necessary part of them."

Mrs. Lester R. Gardner was Miss Jean Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jackson of Hubbard Woods until her marriage on New Year's day.

Colors of Christmas Are Predominant at Wedding

A wedding, red and white in colors of the season, taking place in the light of red candles, on New Year's eve was that of Miss Laura Crane Boak, daughter of Mrs. Robert Burns Boak of Wilmette, and Morris Hutchins Ruger, son of Mrs. F. H. Ruger of New York City. The ceremony was read at 8 o'clock in the Church of St. Elisabeth, Glencoe, by the Rev. George H. Thomas of St. Paul's church, Kenwood.

The bride, carrying an old fashioned colonial bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley, was gowned in white satin and lace. The skirt was made in bouffant style, and the bodice close fitting. Draped from shoulder to arm was a lovely Valenciennes lace shawl. The veil of tulle was fastened with a band of orange blossoms and lace.

Carrying out the color scheme, the gowns of Miss Frances Louise Jewett of Ravinia, maid of honor, and Miss Donna Garretson and Miss Martha Crossley, the bridesmaids, were of red silk, with bouffant skirts, and the bouquets were red roses and lilies of the valley.

Charles Boak of Glencoe acted as best man for Mr. Ruger. Robert Garretson and Raymond Sterling, of Chicago, were ushers. Robert Boak of Glencoe, brother of the bride, gave her away in marriage.

The white marble altar of the church was banked with red roses and the church was decorated with Christmas greens. Candelabra lined the aisles to the altar.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the North Shore hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Ruger have gone to Birmingham, Ala., to live.

Jean Jackson Bride of New Year's Day

The marriage of Miss Jean Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson of 1195 Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods, to Lester R. Gardner of Wallingford, Conn., took place at Christ church, Winnetka, on January 1.

Miss Jackson was gowned in a white satin dress with panels hanging down each side of the skirt. Long sleeves of georgette, and embroidery of pearls and diamonds gave the dress a distinctly modern and yet stately appearance. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, white roses and sweet peas. Her veil was adorned with exquisite lace that has been in the family for years.

Miss Carol Jackson, the bride's sister, who attended as maid of honor, wore a rose georgette gown trimmed with handkerchief drapery of rose georgette. She wore a small black satin hat, and carried a bouquet of roses.

Miss Ethel Jackson, also a sister, and one of the bridesmaids, wore a gown of emerald chiffon, embroidered in gold. The other attending bridesmaid, Miss Marjorie Lowe of Chicago, wore a gown fashioned in a similar style to Miss Jackson's, but made of peach-colored chiffon. Both gowns had accordeon plaited panels hanging from the waist in front, and both were made with long sleeves. The bridesmaids wore picture hats of black satin, and carried bouquets of white and pink roses.

Charles M. Barry of Chicago, formerly of Wallingford, acted as best man, and the list of ushers included Carl S. Bullis of Chicago, formerly of Wallingford, Webster Jackson, the bride's brother, Sidney T. and William C. Webster, both of Wilmette, cousins of the bride.

The church was decorated with the holiday colorings, holly and green leaves predominating. The altar was banked with red and white roses. The bride's home, where a reception for the bridal party, about fifty relatives and a few friends, followed the ceremony, was also decorated with holiday colorings, holly and red and white roses being used profusely.

Mr. Gardner and his bride are planning to make their home on the north side of Chicago. Five generations of the bride's mother's family have lived in Chicago. Her great-great grandmother was a resident of Chicago in the days when Indians were a menace, and was forced to take refuge in Fort Dearborn when Black Hawk and his tribe attacked the settlers.

The first course was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Townsend of 1337 Ashland avenue, Wilmette, and the second in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Frost of 509 Central avenue, Wilmette.
