Yak, the Dog, Does Disappearing Act at Word "Iodine"

Doc Yak, the Winnetka police dog, an exceedingly intelligent but not to say handsome canine, is finding time, apart from his official duties of accompanying officials on their beats, and licking the other dogs of the village who are so unwise as to challenge him for a fight, to take a course in medicine.

Yak understands one medical word thoroughly, and is quite familiar with the purpose for which "iodine" is used, especially when Chief Peterson mentions the name in his presence.

Yak knows from experience that when iodine is applied to a fresh wound there is a smarting sensation. Now when he comes limping into the station, as he does occasionally after one of his various encounters with some of the village's unruly dogs, Chief Peterson says, "Well, Yak, it's a little iodine for you."

And unless the doors to the station are closed before the word "iodine" is mentioned, Yak quietly slips away and remains out of reach of his would-be-benefactor.

MEN are particular about the laundering of their shirts. So are we. That's why Bill the Washington Laundry Man is so popular in every neighborhood.

A word to the Mrs.....

You know how finicky the men folks are about the way that their shirts are laundered; and above all you know the time and pains it takes to do them right. Why not give them to Bill? Hundreds of other housewives do; and he pleases them, too.

Drum Corps Aspirants to Assemble Monday Evening

The second step in the organization of a Winnetka drum corps will be taken next Monday evening, at which time Lee Adams requests those who are desirous of enrolling in the organization to report at headquarters of Winnetka Post No. 10, American Legion, at Community House.

Mr. Adams reports that already much interest has been manifest in the proposed new drum corps as mentioned in THE WINNETKA TALK last week, and the indications now are that there will be a sufficient number on hand Monday evening to get the organization underway at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Woodland, 336 Leicester road, will leave Kenilworth January 21, for Havana. They plan to be away about a month.
