VILLAGE THEATRE

"The Perfect Sap," showing at the Village theatre Monday and Tuesday, is a comedy mystery drama featuring Ben Lyons and Pauline Stark. The plot is taken from Howard Irving Young's "Not Herbert," which was staged in New York last year. Ben is cast as the weak-sister son of idle rich parents who becomes an amateur detective and goes sleuthing in the underworld. He captures a wife. Advance notices indicate a successful picture.

"Syncopating Sue," coming on Wednesday and Thursday, is said to be one of Corinne Griffith's best pictures, even funnier than "Classified" and more gripping than "Into Her Kingdom." It is the tale of a piano pounding song-plugger in New York's Tin Pan Alley, whose main interests in life are her dreams of a stage career and her romance with a cabaret-trap-drummer. There is, according to reports, a generous bit of good drama, deft comedy and sentiment, without an overdose of either. It looks good.

"The Nervous Wreck," the Friday and Saturday contribution to the week's program, is based on the farce by Owen Davis which was shown recently on the legitimate stage. It is in all a big outdoor production and a comedy of the first order. The story, briefly, deals with a man who thinks himself a nervous wreck and goes west for his health. In the climax the "Wreck" has to fight for an opportunity to die in peace, whereupon he realizes that he has lost all of his maladies. The fight for Sally's hand becomes more exciting than thoughts of a decent burial.

Mary Pickford's "Sparrows" and "We're in the Navy Now" are scheduled for an early appearance.

now than ever giggled at his misadventures in print.

"The Potters," arriving at the Norshore theater Sunday, with W. C. Fields starred as Pa, concerns itself with the episode in which Pa becomes interested in an oil deal. If you've never read J. P. McEvoy's comic strip or seen his play, it might be wise to say that "The Potters" are a family of average human, everyday Americans. Pa is honest, blundering and ambitious. Ma loves her husband but continually argues with him. Mamie is eighteen and a flapper. Bill has reached an age where he can sport a cute little mustache.

Nothing but laugh-provoking scenes follow on each other's heels. Ivy Harris and Mary Alden are featured in Mr. Field's support. Fred Newmeyer directed for Paramount.

THE VARSITY

Milton Sills and Viola Dana in "The Silent Lovers," a favorite pair in an engaging picture, will feature Monday's bill at the Varsity theater.

"Winners of the Wilderness" is the current showing, a romance of the west featuring Joan Crawford and Col. Tim McCoy. Wednesday and Thursday of the new week will bring Irene Rich in "Don't Tell the Wife," with Huntley Gordon playing opposite. Friday and Saturday will bring the eagerly-awaited "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut" featuring Jackie Coogan.

The regular features augment all these pictures at the Varsity—the giant Geneva organ skillfully played by Louis Lohmann; the Varsity concert orchestra directed by James Kozak, the Varsity news events, The Collegians in "Cross Country Race," and the International Revue by Dorothy Devine and company.

The value of fine art objects in Illinois exceeds $13,500,000.
