

Gives New Light on Washington's Foreign Policy

(Contributed)

Village President John S. Miller addressed the Winnetka Masonic body Tuesday, February 15, on "Washington and Foreign Relations." The address showed that an immense amount of research had prepared Mr. Miller to give a scholarly interpretation of Washington. It was news to many that Washington had influenced America's foreign policy in so many directions. He was sure it would be Washington's thought that the policy which he laid down in his second inaugural must be interpreted in the light of the period in which one was living.

In these days when there is so much discussion with regard to world affairs, it is quite valuable to have so clearly reviewed what has not always been published in histories.

The prolonged applause which followed Mr. Miller's address was an indication of high regard for a man who tried to be honestly frank and flash all the facts upon the minds of his hearers.
