Dartmouth Musical Groups to Present Concert at Drake

The Dartmouth College Musical club, now among the oldest musical organizations in America, will give a concert at the Drake hotel, Chicago, April 12. The Dartmouth College Musical club is the parent organization comprising the Glee club, the Instrumental club and the dance orchestra. A dance will follow the concert.

Much of the characteristic quality of Dartmouth music is due to the fact that Hanover, N. H., is far distant from cities and large towns, and consequently there has been an immense development of resources which would furnish entertainment for an isolated community. The first Dartmouth organization took a formal name in 1807, preceding the Handel Society of Boston by eight years, and continued until 1870 when it was re-organized into an organization something like that of the present day.

The Glee club is being led this year by R. C. Mix '27 of Worcester, Mass.; the Instrumental club by David H. Merriam '27 of Fitchburg, Mass.

Mix, who is appearing with the organization for his fourth year is, in addition, president of the Occum Council of the college. Other prominent undergraduates to be included in the personnel are Jerry Allis '27, captain of soccer, R. J. Michelini '27, captain of the 1926 baseball team, and Karl Michael of the Dartmouth swimming team, who holds the New England Intercollegiate Diving championship and the Junior National A. A. U. Diving title.

The program will include selections by the Glee club, group and solo selections and harmony arrangements by the Do-Do Trio. This group of Hanover songsters adopts the prevalent mode of turning popular melodies into distinctive harmonies. The striking presentation of their numbers and retention of pitch without piano accompaniment is an accomplishment that has long taxed even the greatest of group singers.

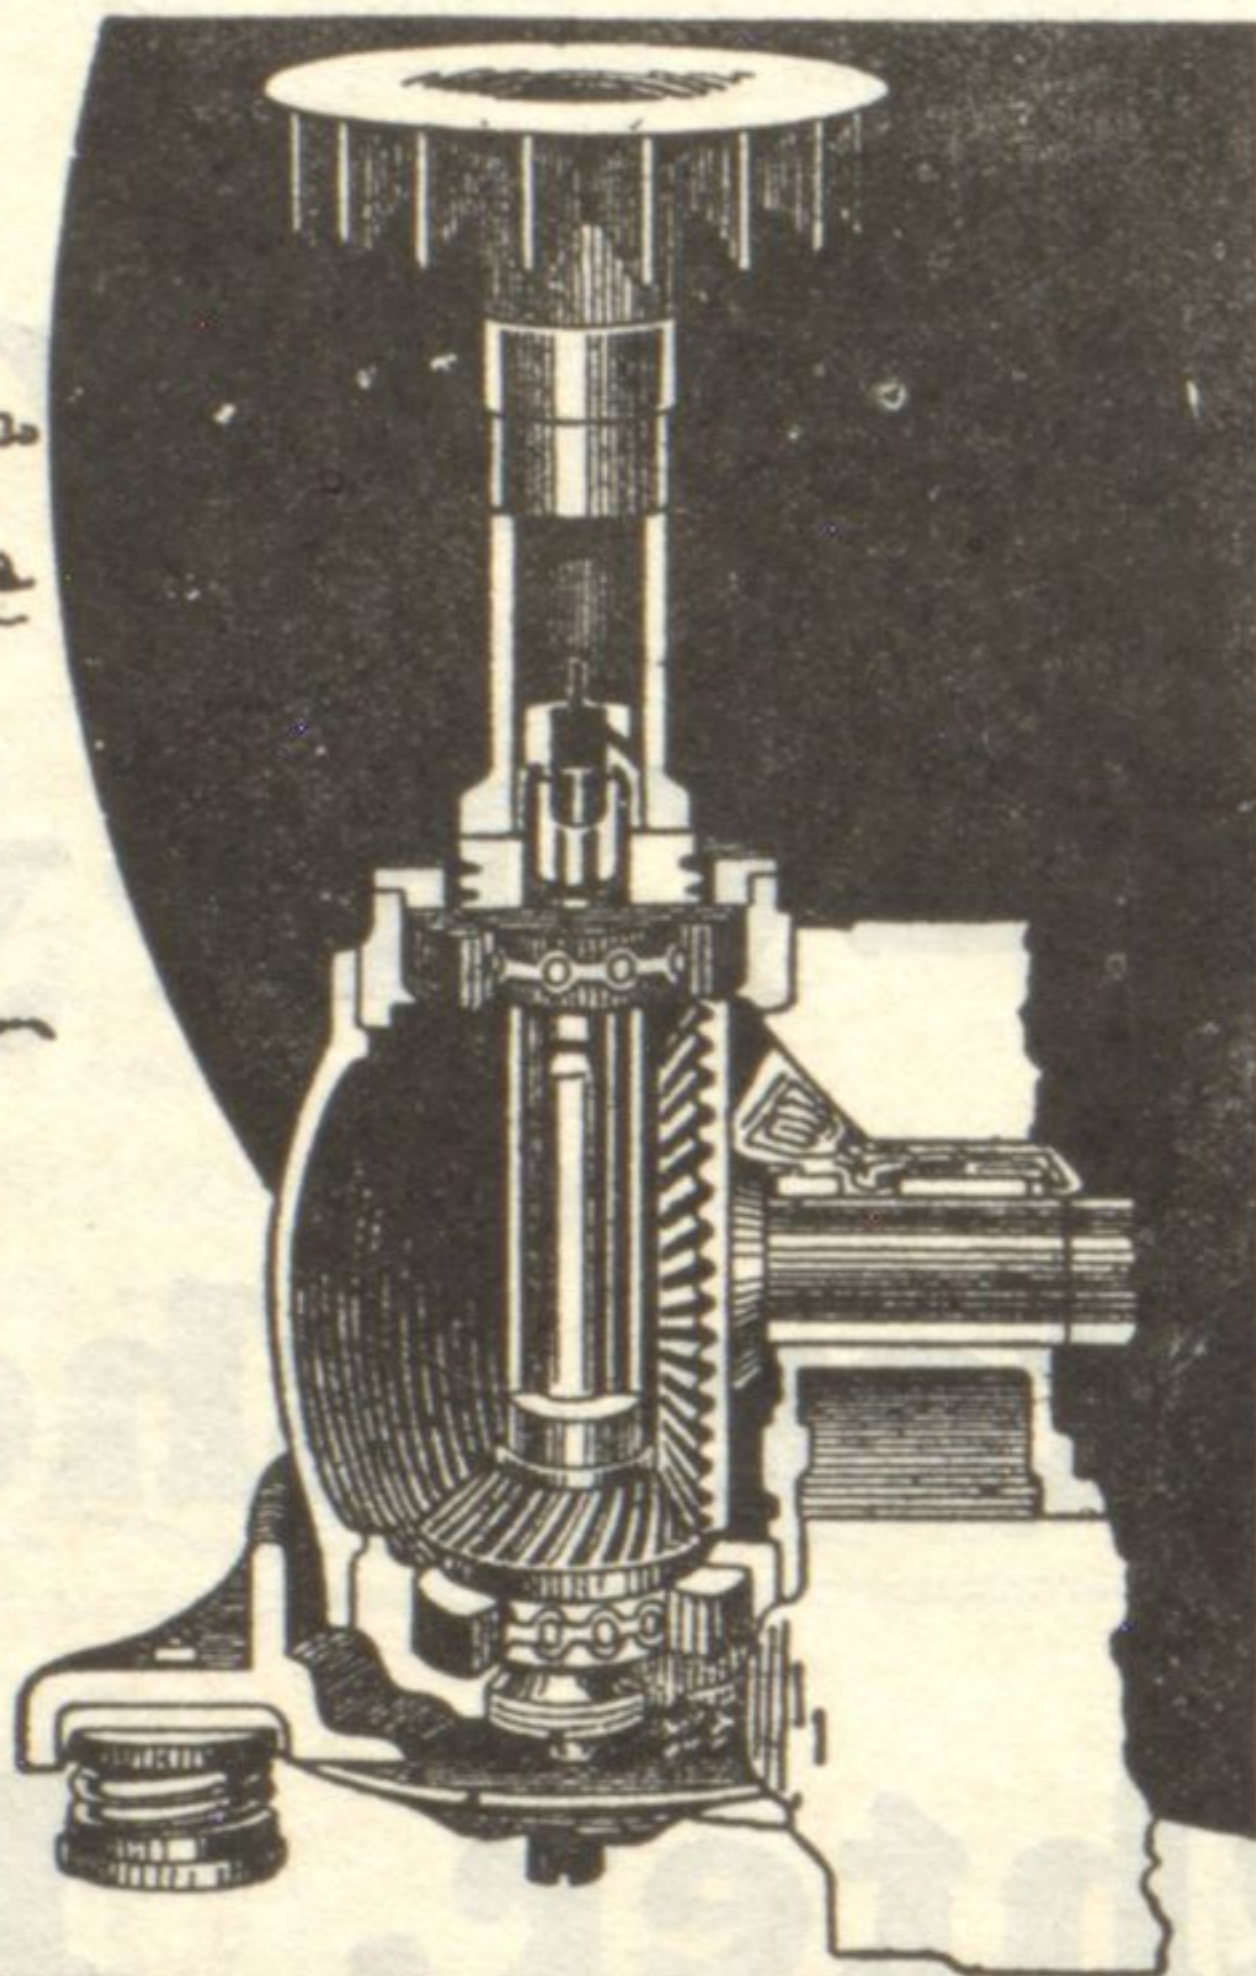

Northwestern Coeds Learn Secret of Attractiveness

Designed to give the individual a few working principles to guide her in the selection of clothes to suit her particular personality, color, stature, etc., the art department of Northwestern university staged an interesting fashion show recently.

The parade of styles illustrated a lecture on costume design by Miss Anna Helga Hong, the Ida C. Cook professor of art at the university. Art students wore new frocks lent by several Chicago shops and by the Patricia shop in Evanston.

You can now buy a Hardinge Fuel Oil Burner, completely installed, fully automatic, and thermostatically controlled, and with a 1,000 gallon tank, for $1,000, on the following terms:
$100 with order;
$100 when installed;
$ 72 per month for 12 months, including interest on deferred payments.
Others as low as $761.

The First Principle of Oil Burning

The making of a fire by the Hardinge Fuel Oil Burner is the sound, scientific application of a mechanical oil burner.

By means of a highly developed fuel control, oil is fed to the atomizer shown above in regular quantities. Air is introduced in a manner that gives correct control of the airoil, which burns without carbon. This is made possible by exclusive patented Hardinge features.

The result is a powerful, clean flame which evenly distributes at the grate level of the boiler (the point where heat is most quickly absorbed) the maximum, or 98%, of the heat contents of the fuel.

The Hardinge flame, having the lines of force outwardly and evenly in all directions from the center, accumulates residual gas in the smallest area, and away from the boiler plate, and starts it through the boiler so as to give the greatest heat efficiency.

Investigate—let us show you how the scientific, efficient Hardinge flame can be economically applied to your boiler. Send for free booklet, "The Plain Truth About Oil Burners."

You don't know oil burners until you have seen the Hardinge. We fully guarantee the Hardinge Fuel Oil Burner.
