

Many Schools Enter Theater Tournament at N. U. This Month

Nine colleges already have entered the second annual Northwestern university theater tournament for the Cumnock Cup, to be held on April 21, 22 and 23, in Annie May Swift hall on the Evanston campus. The entrants to date follow:

Albion college, Albion, Mich.; State Teachers' college, Valley City, North Dakota; West Virginia university, Morgantown, W. Va.; Berea college, Berea, Kentucky; Evansville college, Evansville, Ind.; Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, Kans.; State Normal college, Bowling Green, Ohio; Western State Normal school, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Grinnell college, Grinnell, Iowa.

A few years ago Dr. Robert L. Cumnock, founder of the School of Speech of Northwestern university, conceived the idea that if an annual theatrical tournament were held, the results ultimately would be higher standards both in college dramatics and in the national theatrical world. Accordingly, Dr. Cumnock offered a prize of $250 to the winning school and stipulated that, whereas the contest should be held on the Evanston campus of Northwestern, the university's school of dramatics should not be permitted to compete. Hence, Northwestern while acting as host, is not a competitor.

This year's preliminary contests will be held on the afternoons of April 21 and 22 and the finals on the evening of April 23—all in Annie May Swift hall. For the entertainment of the visitors, Northwestern School of Speech will present three one-act plays during the tournament. These presentations are under the direction of Prof. Vance Morton of the School of Speech who is now instructing the participants. Dean Ralph Dennis is promoting the competition itself.

Any school which grants a bachelor's degree may enter the competition. Dean Dennis states. Only one-act plays are allowed under the rules. Last year's winner was West Virginia whose dramatic group presented J. M. Synge's "Riders to the Sea."

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Felsenthal of 1123 Chatfield road have returned after two and a half months spent in California.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Tefney of 640 Pine street returned last week from Tryon, N. C., where they had spent a month.

The magnitude of service rendered to the public by a progressive electrically-operated railroad is indicated by the number of customers carried during 1926 on the North Shore Line, a total of 19,461,426. This number, representing double the population of Illinois and Wisconsin combined (the two states in which the North Shore line operates) is an increase of 1,232,266 over the year 1925, indicating the constantly growing appreciation for this convenient and complete transportation service.
