NOW IN NEW QUARTERS

Increase in Business of the Yesterlaid Egg Company Causes Them to Procure More Spacious Plant

The Yesterlaid Egg Co. is justified in the crowing which it is doing these days, not alone for the many compliments which it is receiving upon the products which it is supplying north shore homes and for the marvelous increase in business which it has enjoyed since starting only nine months ago, but also because it is now in its spacious new quarters in the Hoth building at 384 Center street, Winnetka.

Gordon H. Rodgers says he has demonstrated that north shore housewives are appreciative of his efforts to supply them with really and truly "fresh eggs," and so rapid has the increase in this demand been since opening his market in a small way last July, that he has been compelled to seek the larger and most modern quarters which he now occupies.

Here he has a large automatically controlled refrigeration plant where the eggs and butter and also the dressed poultry, during the short time they are in his plant, are insured the proper temperature necessary to maintain the fresh condition in which he receives them.

He receives a shipment of eggs every day directly from large state supervised poultry farms in Southern Wisconsin and the butter is shipped directly from the larger creameries, every other day.

His poultry he receives directly from the poultry farms, and in his new plant, which will be completed in a few days, will be provided five hundred feet of floor space in deck feeding crates where the fowls will be kept ten days on a milk fattening diet before they are dressed for the market.

Mr. Rodgers says his motto from the very beginning has been, "Quality First," and on this he has built the large trade which he now enjoys.

This service, he says, he is able to give at substantially the same price as that charged at other stores.

He serves Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe, making deliveries of eggs and butter three times a week with special delivery of poultry on any day.

Group Rides Now Popular Pastime for Riding Club

The Indian Hill Riding club announces a series of group rides on Saturday afternoons in April and May leaving the club stables at 2:30. The following hostesses consented to serve tea in the tea room at the stables at 4:30 when the riders return:

Response Generous as Workers Canvass for White Elephants

(Contributed)

The White Elephant sale to be conducted by members of the Winnetka Congregational church, May 4 and 5, according to Mrs. Daniel Lasier, is the best panacea she knows for that "tired feeling," that so many people are apt to experience in the spring.

As to the success of the undertaking financially, she is exceedingly optimistic, basing her attitude upon the response to her "every member canvass" for articles for the gift table. Thus far it has been a one hundred percent response.

The friendly rivalry existing between the "Stitch in Time" and the "Cash and Carry" clubs add much zest and enthusiasm over the church building program among the members, it is said. Both clubs will have stands near the elephant's trunk at the sale. Members of the "Stitch in Time" club—who now have $500 in bonds in the treasury—contend that they intend to build the steeple on the church.

Contributions are being sent in regularly to the White Elephant sale headquarters at the Community House. An awning swing for the lawn that is almost new; a dining room table, davenport, book-cases, brass and iron beds in splendid condition, a hall-tree, a large mission buffet, and a baby buggy are among the many things that have been sent in and will be placed on sale. Children's toys, musical instruments and good clothing, hats and shoes are also promised. Members of the church who are anxious to make the sale an outstanding event are urged by the committee in charge to send in their contributions at once. The workers are beginning to sort and it will help them considerably to have all contributions on hand early. Anyone not having a means of sending things to Community House may phone Winnetka 538 and arrangements will be made to take care of them.

Marriage or a career? That is the problem that confronts the young heroine in "The Detour," the Owen Davis play to be produced here soon by the North Shore Theater Guild. Its novel solution holds vital interest for the modern young women and their mothers.

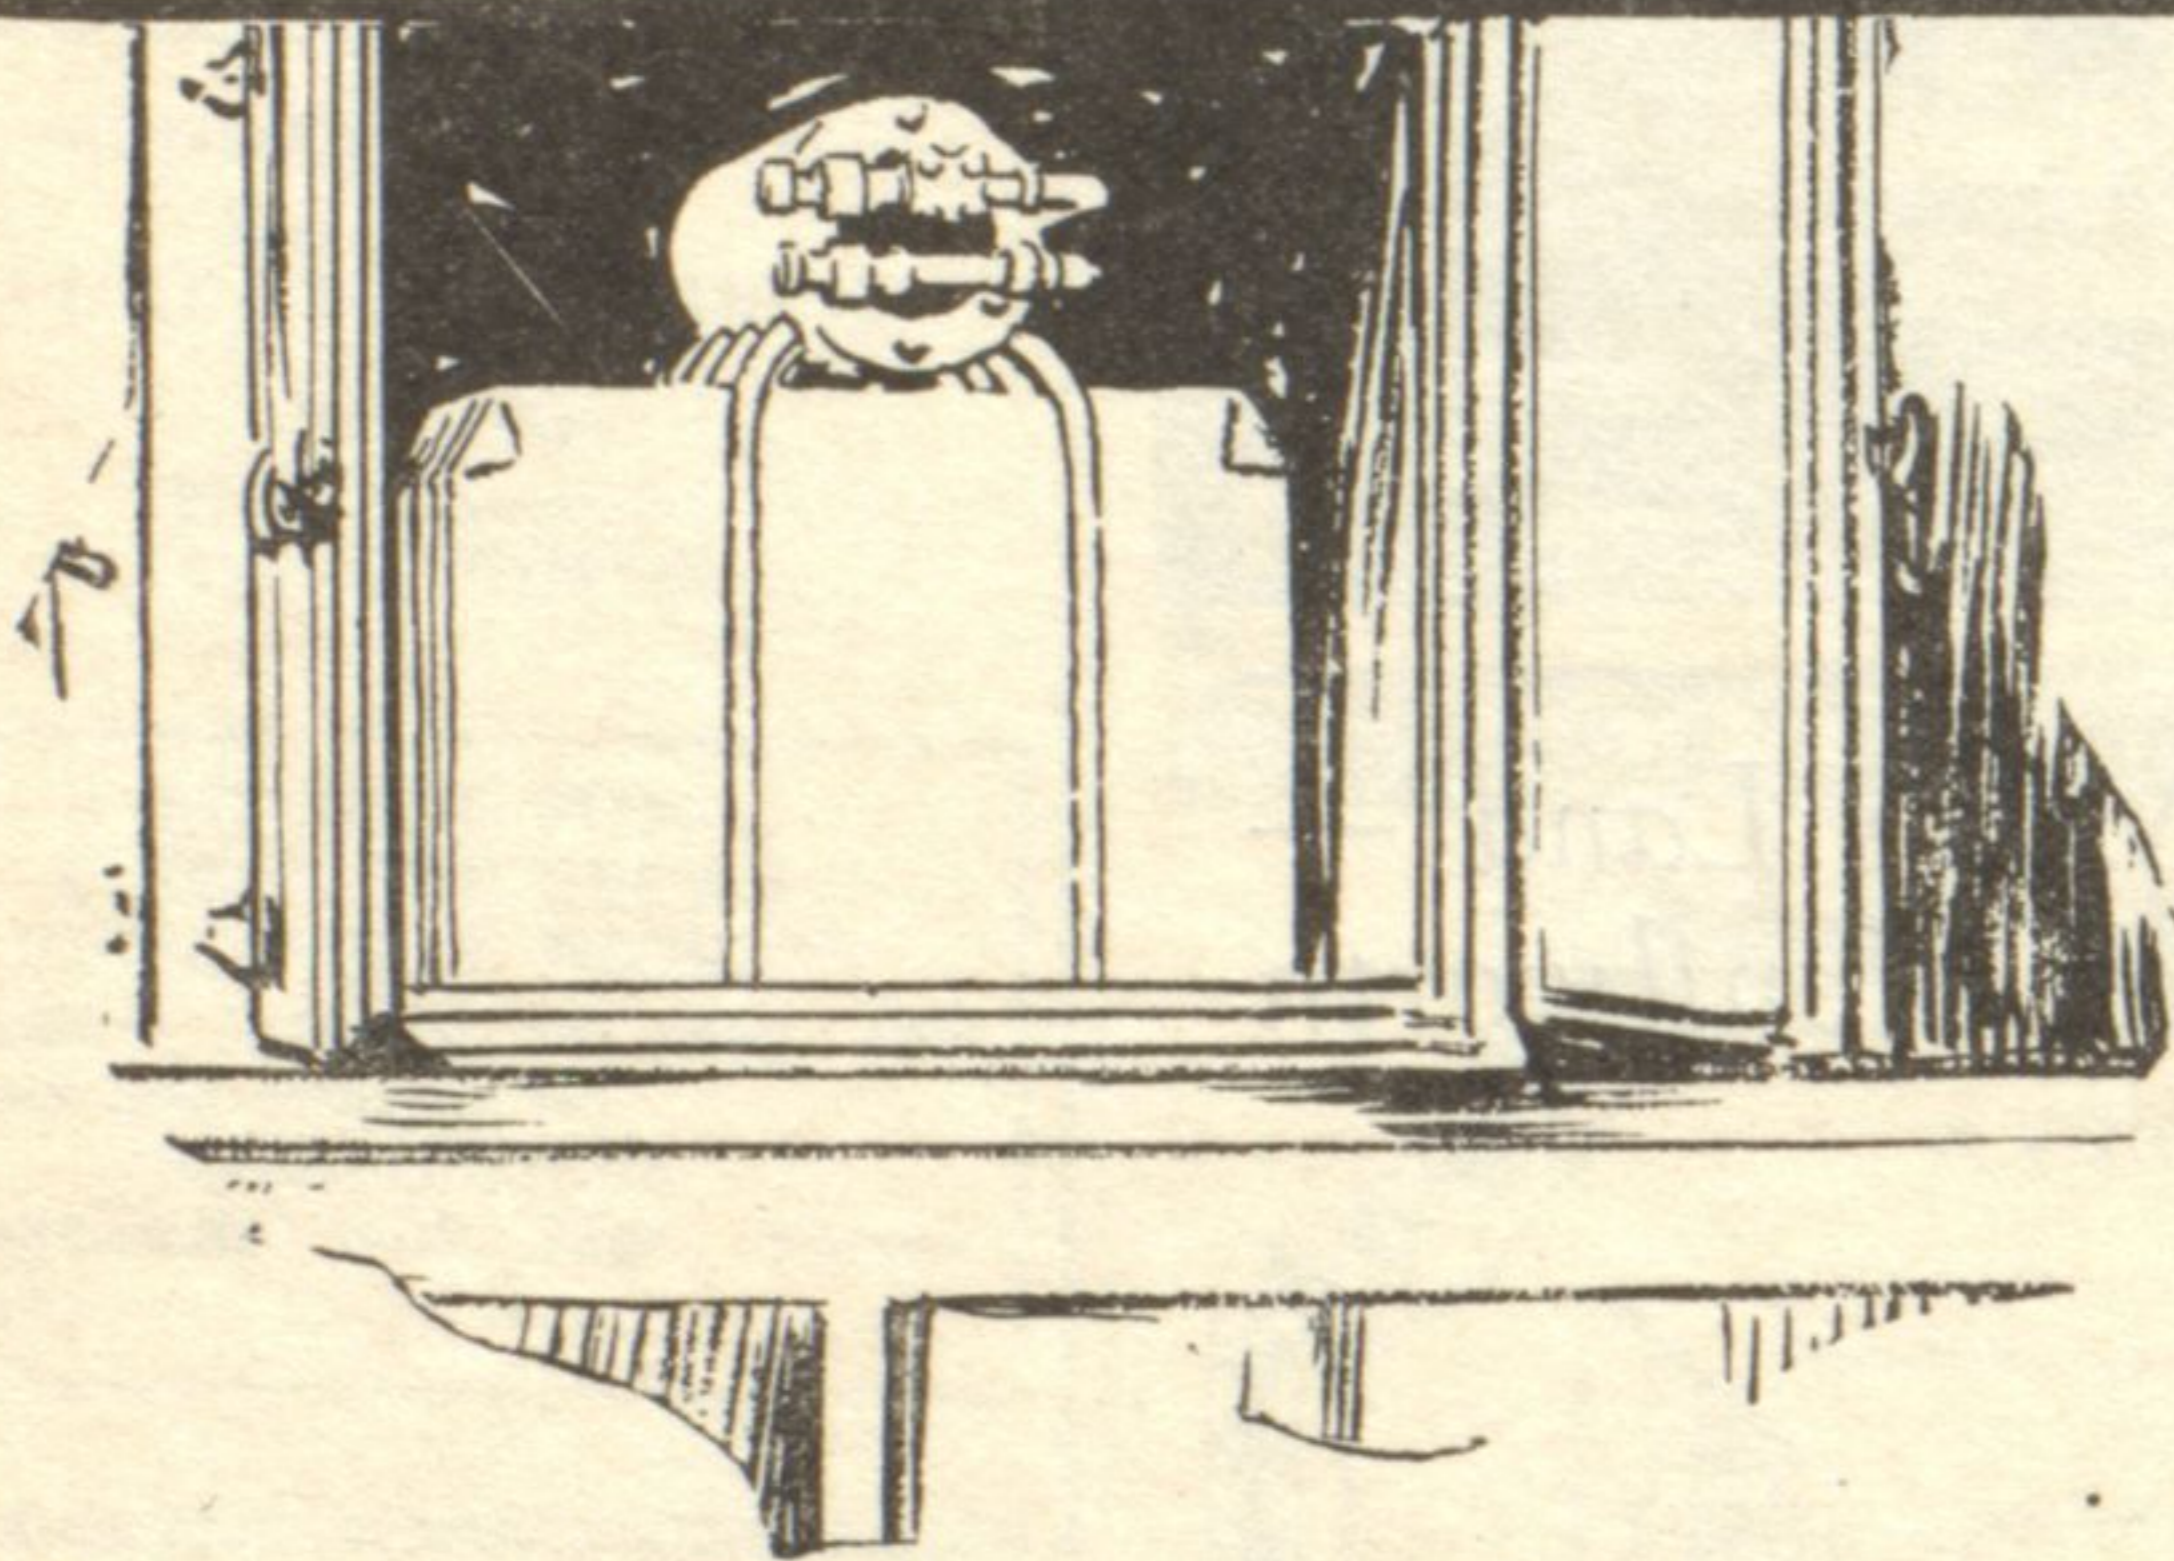

Mrs. Carl Keith, 310 Warwick road, Kenilworth, with her daughters, Harriett and Jean, spent the first part of the week in Peoria visiting her daughter, Mrs. Cleon Larsen. Mr. and Mrs. Larsen are expecting to spend this week-end with Mrs. Keith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Littell, 322 Woodstock avenue, and their daughter, Jane, left Kenilworth last Friday to spend two weeks in Virginia Hot Springs.

and joined the equestrians at tea were Mrs. Hobart Young, Mr. and Mrs. James Prindiville, Mrs. Godfrey Atkin and Mrs. W. A. Shaw.

The interest in riding this year is keener than ever, it is said. The Riding club members are making the most of the unusual opportunity afforded them through the "bridle paths" which radiate westward from Winnetka putting them in close touch with the miles of similar paths that have been laid out through the Forest Preserve. Last week's ride covered twelve miles. Those planned for the coming Saturdays will be shorter.
