Legion News

Urges Flood Relief

The efficient work of American Legion posts in the flood areas of the Mississippi valley was praised by Howard P. Savage, national commander, in a nation-wide message just issued asking Legion support of the special committee appointed by President Coolidge to raise funds for the American National Red Cross relief work in behalf of the flood sufferers.

Commander Savage sent the following special telegram to the commanders of ten states, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Kansas, Louisiana, Illinois and Oklahoma:

"I commend you and the posts in your department for the prompt and efficient service rendered in holding the breaking levees and giving needed aid to flood sufferers.

"I now call your attention to the president's proclamation asking all organizations and citizens to assist in every way the work of restoration and the relief of the stricken people in the flood area. Let our Legion take the lead in giving the Red Cross all possible assistance."

The national commander made the same plea to the heads of the Legion in all states to support the Red Cross and the president's special committee in its campaign for funds for flood relief activities. The request of Commander Savage will automatically reach all of the Legion's individual posts which number more than 10,000, and its membership of three-quarters of a million.
