

"Flawless" Artist

two groups of children's songs and they will sing the cantata, "Old Johnny Appleseed" by Harvey B. Gaul. The Chicago Civic orchestra, directed by Frederick Stock, will play Rossini's "Overture to William Tell," Strauss' "Tales from the Vienna Woods," the suite from the ballet, "Sleeping Beauty" by Tschaikowsky, a waltz movement by Volkmann and a polonaise from a serenade by Beethoven whose music, marking the centennial of his passing, will be made important all throughout the festival.

Miss Braslau has been acclaimed "the Schumann-Heink of the younger generation, with an art like that of Chaliapin, Ruffo, Bori and Pavlowa." The late James G. Huneker summed up her voice with just two words, "gorgeous contralto." Of it a Berlin critic said: "It is a phenomenal contralto. There are few voices like it in the world. It is a genuine contralto with a seemingly unending upper register. The singer is a rare type. In her interpretations her intelligence is equalled by her emotions. Her personality is very striking. She is, in fact, an amazing creature."

John Tomlinson Named Professor of Philosophy

John Tomlinson son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Tomlinson, a member of the class of 1925 at Northwestern university, has been appointed to the faculty of Wabash college, Wabash, Ind.

He has been appointed professor of philosophy, succeeding Dr. George S. Mackintosh, and will also serve as personnel director and student advisor.

"Jimmie" Patterson, well known to Northwestern alumni, now a student at Columbia university, has been appointed head of the newly organized department of physical education at Wabash.

"Sophie Braslau is flawless." This is the testimonial of Lena Falk Gjertsen, music critic for the San Diego Tribune who wrote the above in praise of the singer following a concert at which she appeared.

The north shore will have occasion to verify this judgment when Miss Braslau sings the two arias which are an important part of the program of the Evanston Music festival to be presented Saturday afternoon, May 28.

She is booked to appear on the annual Saturday afternoon children's program—one of the festival's outstanding occasions. The children's chorus of 1,500 voices will be heard in
