Wanted: Song Writer to Compose Piece for Alumni

It's a difficult task to write a modern song for a growing university, especially when a song-poem all set to special music is required and the toughness of the assignment can be imagined when the prospective song writer must get up a soul stirring battle-cry in which athletics may not be stressed. Yet, that is the job a special committee of the General Alumni association of Northwestern university is undertaking.

The committee wants nothing more or less than a substitute for "Go-U-Northwestern" or "Rise Northwestern," both of which are called excellent university hymns, with a football flavor, but not exactly a regulation or simon-pure university song-poem. The General Alumni association has just announced a prize of $200 "for the best song-poem and a prize of $300 for the best musical setting for such song poem."

The official organ of the alumni association says: "It is the hope of the committee that many song-lyrics will be submitted, for out of a great number one may prove to be just suited to the purpose and suggest to a composer a musical setting of the first order. While it is hoped that some of the literati among alumni and friends of the university will submit songs, yet amateurs should not hesitate to compete. What is sought is a song not to be sung by highbrows only, but by college folks generally. Preference will be given to a song that does not stress athletics. What is wanted is some good Alma Mater songs."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Ballard of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. William W. Collin, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ballard of 811 Auburn road.
