

Terms Gasoline Tax as Simply Double Taxation

"In practically every town in Illinois merchants use trucks and light delivery cars in the course of their business. These cars, for the most part, are used on city streets or within the confines of the county. Certainly it is unfair to ask the owners of such cars in hundreds of cities in Illinois to pay for the cost of building roads over which these cars will never travel," says Charles H. Hayes of Winnetka, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"Motorists in Illinois now provide themselves with a state license. The fees obtained from this license build our highways. A gasoline tax would mean that in addition to providing the paved highways the motorist would have to pay again for every mile that his car traveled over these highways. To impose a gasoline tax in addition to the state license fee is similar in effect to taxing the general public for schools, parks and libraries, and then assessing every individual for each visit made to these institutions; another example: it would be like assessing the public for general police protection and then charging a certain rate for every step a police officer took in passing by the citizen's home or place of business."

Christian Science

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, May 8.

The golden text was from Romans 5:17. "If by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven" (I Cor. 15: 22, 47).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals are not fallen children of God. They never had a perfect state of being, which may subsequently be regained... Jesus beheld in Science the perfect man, who appeared to him where sinning mortal man appears to mortals. In this perfect man the Saviour saw God's own likeness, and this correct view of man healed the sick" (pp. 476, 477).

THE IREDALE WAREHOUSES

FOREMOST ALONG THE NORTH SHORE

stored her mink cloak in a cedar closet or in a paper bag with moth balls. She was a particular person, and took excellent care of her valuable possessions.

Summer after summer she stored it away, having brushed it and hung it in the sun for three days running. Perhaps she managed to elude the moth—perhaps thieves passed her by and fire assailed her not.

Iredale's Storage Vaults

installed at tremendous expense afford absolute protection from moths, fire and theft at unbelievably low prices.

No Moth Can Live After This Treatment

Garments are taken into an air tight gas chamber and treated for 24 hours with a deadly gas that obliterates any lurking trail of the moth. They are then hung away in our vaults behind huge insulated doors that make them unquestionably safe.
